The Carmel Pine Cone

and Carmel Valley Outlook

OUR 68TH YEAR, NO. 16

APRIL 15, 1982

IN A PITCHED BATTLE against the forces of nature, county public works crews bulldozed fill and concrete rubble over the south bank of the Carmel River just upstream of the Schulte Road bridge. Erosion claimed 30 feet of the bank before the savage power of the river was controlled. For more photos and news coverage, see page 3.

Charlotte Townsend elected mayor; Stephenson and Maradei to council

By ROBERT MISKIMON

NOW IT'S OFFICIALLY:
"Charlotte Townsend, Mayor."

The comma between Townsend's name and the title of mayor which stirred a controversy during the election campaign has been endorsed by Carmel voters.

By a 26-vote margin, voters expressed a preference for Townsend as mayor for two years over incumbent Barney Laiolo — who had raised objections to the use of a comma in her campaign literature — and over former Mayor Gunnar Norberg.

Townsend, who is the second female mayor of Carmel in 60 years, gathered 657 votes compared to Laiolo's 631 votes, and Norberg's 267. Townsend drew 42.3 percent of the votes; Laiolo 40.6 percent and Norberg 17 percent.

Voters unseated incumbent Councilman Mike Brown and elected Robert Stephenson and David Maradei to two, four-year terms on the Carmel City Council. The newly-elected mayor and two new council members are to be sworn into office at the April 20 council meeting.

A total of 1,567 of the 3,803 registered voters in Carmel turned out for Tuesday's election — voter turnout of 41.2 percent.

Townsend said she will step down as president of the Board of Directors of the Carmel Sanitary District but will continue as a board member until the completion of her term of office in 1984.

She said she views the results of the election as an indication that citizens want more harmony and cooperation on the council — themes which she stressed in her campaign.

"I'm extremely grateful to all the people who helped me and worked in my campaign," Mayor Townsend said. "It was a very close election, but now it's time to utilize all our strength and resources to address common goals."

Townsend said she doesn't think the election was a personality contest between herself and Laiolo, despite Laiolo's attack on her campaign literature which prompted letters to the editor that characterized his objections as "sexist" and "biased" against women.

"I hope it was an issue contest — not a personality contest," Townsend said. "People should realize from the results of this election that every vote counts. Now we need to get working on the issues."

Laiolo said he would await the official canvass of election results Thursday before he decides whether to ask for a recount of the votes.

"There could have been some irregularities that didn't show up," Laiolo said. "There were many things I thought that were not right; possibly there were some irregularities."

"The election rules should be changed so that husbands and wives can't work in the same polling place. We had a couple of places where husbands and wives worked together in Carmel. I think that could possibly influence the vote."

ROBERT STEPHENSON, a member of the Carmel Planning Commission, drew 902 votes — more than any other candidate — to secure a seat on the city council. A total of 31.5 percent of the voters cast their ballots for Stephenson.

"Am I surprised? Not too much," Stephenson said. "I expected (incumbent Mike) Brown to win. I imagine I got so many votes because of my longevity here in the community. I think the council will work well together."

"David Maradei is an intelligent young man. This will be a good council that will get things done."

Maradei, station manager of the Carmel-by-the-Sea Post Office, is a member of the Carmel Forestry Commission. He got 596 votes — 20.8 percent of the total — to win the other four-year council term.

Incumbent Mike Brown got 543 votes, or 18.9 percent of the total cast. Larry Little, a Carmel innkeeper, received 392 votes (13.7 percent); Dr. C. Robert Pettit got 310 votes (10.8 percent); and Robert Calais got 117 votes (4 percent).

Letters to the editor are welcome. Views on all matters are acceptable, following the guidelines of good taste. While there is no limit on length, brevity is encouraged. Letters are subject to editing for style and length. Each letter must contain name, address and signature. A phone number is needed for verification only. Anonymous letters are not accepted.

Watt — a disaster!

Dear Editor:

A presidential task force, trying to find new non-governmental ways to fill public needs, called on Americans to contribute five percent of their incomes to charity.

I'm waiting to hear from Ronald Reagan regarding his "tithe" for charity.

I recall his income of over $200,000 and his charitable donation of $3,000. Some giver!

Another tradition succumbs

Dear Editor:

We had lunch on Good Friday at the Pine Inn and were pleasantly surprised to notice that the Inn's bar still closed from noon till 3 p.m.

As an old time resident, I remember when every shop in Carmel closed from noon until 3 p.m. in observation of Good Friday.

I regret that another Carmel tradition has succumbed to the tourist trade.

Opposes widening Highway 1

Carmel City Council

Dear City Council:

I was happy with the results of the discussion on the above subject at the council meeting on April 6, and hope you will lose no time in making further moves toward having a road built through Hatton Canyon as it is urgently needed.

The points in its favor were well covered, but there is one which no one brought up.

That is, if the state sold its right of way there who would buy the land except someone who wanted to develop it, probably for both residential and commercial use?

If this were done, a road would have to be put through Hatton Canyon anyway and more people would only add to the present congestion on Highway 1 besides creating more sewer and water problems.

It seems to me that widening Highway 1 doesn't have much in its favor at all!

Please keep this letter so I will be on record with my thoughts!

Book sale a success

Dear Editor:

On behalf of the members of the Monterey Bay Wellesley Club, I would like to thank the Pine Cone for their fine cooperation in making our 18th annual "Bargains in Books" a success.

We also thank our patrons who have been so faithful over the years and welcome our new customers. We truly appreciate the generosity of those who donated books.

As a result of the sale, we are able to send Wellesley College monies for the Barbara Bell Thomson Memorial Scholarship Fund, which will enable girls from our area to attend this outstanding school.

Thank you all.

A fine paper

Dear Editor:

I would just like to say "thank you" for putting out such a fine paper.

I used to live in the area and I look forward to receiving your paper each week.

Getting your paper is like a touch of home each week.

Keep up the good work.

Sex discrimination issue should be fully addressed

By ROBERT MISKIMON

ALTHOUGH former Carmel City Councilman Howard Brunn's resolution to rebate 41 percent of parking fines to women drivers failed, it did raise an important issue — and one that has yet to be fully addressed.

Councilman Brunn suggested that there are pay inequities between male and female municipal workers on the Monterey Peninsula, including Carmel, but Carmel City Administrator Douglas Peterson denies the allegation.

To answer the question of whether there is employment discrimination against women in the city of Carmel, one must look not only at salary ranges, but also at the relative percentages of women in upper management positions.

There is the complex and still-evolving concept of comparable worth, not to mention the issue of job stereotyping, which are both elements in the question of equality for female workers.

Carmel City Administrator Doug Peterson says about half of the 100 city workers are women, and stoutly affirms that a woman who performs the same job as a man will be paid exactly the same. That may well be true, but on the other hand Carmel has no affirmative action program or even a hiring plan to specify hiring objectives, and most upper management positions in the city are held by men.

Here are comparable top monthly salaries for various administrative positions in the city of Carmel: police chief, $3,106; fire chief, $2,871; library director, $2,918; public works director, $2,971; city administrator, $2,500; director of community and cultural center, $2,328.

The only one of those administrative positions held by a woman is that of library director. The city clerk who is female but not considered a management employee, receives $1,703 per month top salary.

There is a female desk sergeant in the Carmel police department who is not a sworn officer and who is therefore not entitled to the full range of job benefits as her sworn, male counterparts. The explanation for this apparent inequity, according to City Administrator Doug Peterson, is that the female officer is not assigned to patrol duty.

Job stereotyping is a subtle but insidious form of sexual discrimination. True, a male secretary may be paid just as much as a female secretary, on the average. But remember that the vast majority of secretaries in the nation are women. The question then becomes: is the job of secretary sexually-stereotyped?

As Riane Eisler, Carmel attorney who drafted former Councilman Brunn's unsuccessful resolution, pointed out, nationwide statistics show that whenever a large percentage of women are employed in a certain occupation, the wages for that job decline.

Preparation of the 1982-83 budget — only a few months away — would seem to be a good place to begin a close examination of wages, benefits and comparable responsibility between male and female workers. It may be necessary to hire an outside consultant to give a thorough, objective analysis of the situation, as some other cities have done.

In any event, now that the issue has been raised in Carmel, one of the top priorities for the new city council ought to be to determine if there is a pattern of job discrimination against women workers, and if there is, to correct it.

Council to seat mayor and two council members

FIRST ORDER of business for the Carmel City Council when it meets April 20 will be seating of two council members and the mayor, after the Tuesday, April 13 election.

The council is scheduled to meet at 7:30 p.m. at city hall, Monte Verde and Ocean.

Introduction of an ordinance to require dogs to be on leashes in the residential area is also on the council agenda, said City Administrator Doug Peterson.

The ordinance originally had been scheduled for introduction at the April 6 council meeting, but was delayed because of a crush of last-minute business, Peterson said.

The measure was suggested by Councilman Frank Lloyd, who said the residential — as well as the commercial areas — of Carmel should be protected by a leash law.

In other business, the council will consider requests for funding in 1982-83 from various social and cultural organizations which provide services to Carmel residents.

City Administrator Peterson said he will suggest formation of a committee to review the requests and to make recommendations for action to the city council.

Under the consent agenda — items expected to be approved routinely — is an amendment to the Carmel handbill ordinance to prohibit distribution of literature to residences where a sign is posted indicating the occupants do not desire the handbills.

Another item on the consent agenda would authorize the city to request a special designation by the legislature to lower speed limits in some areas of Carmel below the current 35 miles per hour.

Councilman Frank Lloyd, who made the request, said he did so because he thinks the city should have more discretion in setting speed limits to slow traffic in certain areas of the city.

THE TUCK BOX, Dolores between Ocean and Seventh, is one of the significant buildings that may be affected by revision of the 1973 general plan.

General Plan Committee to meet

After a nearly five-month hiatus, Earth Metrics will resume its duties as the consultant for the revision of the 1973 Carmel general plan.

A representative of Earth Metrics is expected to attend the General Plan Advisory Committee meeting tonight, (April 15.)

The committee will review the seismic safety and public safety elements of the general plan. The committee only makes recommendations for the general plan revisions, which will eventually be reviewed by the planning commission before going to the city council for adoption.

Earth Metrics has been on the sidelines since late last year as the council renegotiated its contract to include several meetings with the General Plan Advisory Committee. The council eventually approved spending an additional $7,000 to pay for Earth Metrics to attend those sessions.

Meanwhile, the committee has continued to meet in preparation for its sessions with Earth Metrics.

Committee chairwoman Jane Mayer said the group met without the consultant because "when Earth Metrics met with us before, we didn't have enough time. We want to be prepared when they come back. We have clearer views of the elements than what we had before."

Mayer added that she hoped to generate more public interest in the sessions, which have been held on the first and third Thursdays of each month. The meetings are at 7:30 p.m. at city hall.

Youth baseball starts Saturday

THE FIRST BALL of the Carmel Youth Baseball season will be thrown out at 9:30 a.m., Saturday, April 17 at Larson Field on Rio Road.

The traditional start of the season will feature a collection of city, county, and school officials, said Carmel Police Sgt. Gerald Pullen, president of the league.

There are a total of 22 teams, including boys' hardball and girls' softball units, in the league this year, Pullen said. Players number about 380 youths from seven to 16 years old.

Barney Lalolo will throw out the first hardball to the boys and Kay Spindler will toss the first softball to the girls. A color guard unit from Boy Scout Troop 32 will also be on hand.

A special presentation will be made to the Carmel Rotary Club for its donation of a new public address system, Pullen said. Carmel City Administrator Doug Peterson, Monterey County Sheriff Bud Cook, and members of the Carmel Unified School District Board of Education also have been invited.

After the opening ceremonies, a full day of baseball and softball games is scheduled to begin league activity at 10 a.m. The public is invited.

The battle to save Schulte Road

By ROBERT MISKIMON

"IT SEEMS like an endless nightmare."

To Mrs. Gunnar Reimers and other Carmel Valley residents in the vicinity of Schulte Road bridge, the nightmarish qualities of the Carmel River seemed all too evident this week.

Swollen by heavy and persistent weekend rains, the river chewed some 30 feet from the south embankment upstream of the bridge and threatened to wash out the roadway approach.

Monterey County public works crews worked furiously against the erosion in an effort to save the south approach to the bridge, and managed to stabilize the river bank by late Monday.

But for worried residents, the episode was another reminder of the powerfully destructive effects of the Carmel River, and of the continued need for some kind of river channel stabilization.

Before the river was restrained, it had taken a corral shed downstream that belonged to Barbara Sherman. The shed got swallowed up by the river as it voraciously chewed at the banks.

Bill Jackson, bridge superintendent with the county public works department, said the river wiped out its south bank just above the bridge at the rate of about a foot an hour, starting at 10 a.m. Sunday.

By Monday morning, an estimated 25 feet of the south bank had been eroded. A crew of 10 county employees manned bulldozers and dumped fill and concrete riprap into the river's maw, but another five feet washed away before the river receded.

River jacks which were placed in the troubled spot several months ago dangled helplessly in the muddy torrent and slabs of rain-soaked earth slipped relentlessly downward as the crews worked.

A group of children from Carmelo School came on a field trip Monday to witness the river and stood on the Schulte Road bridge in wide-eyed wonder.

"We now have it stopped, unless we get more rains," Jackson said Monday afternoon. "We've stabilized the river at a 30-foot loss. The approach to the bridge is secure — for the time being."

Jackson said the county public works department can assist in erosion control only when a county structure, such as the bridge approach, is threatened. Public works crews laid riprap, fill, and more river jacks for a 50-yard stretch above the bridge before they declared the situation under control.

"The problem was probably a mile or a mile and a half upstream," Jackson said. "There may have been obstructions, like trees, or some frontage work that caused the river to deflect its course. The problem is whenever we do something to protect the bank, the river circles back behind us each time."

The Corps of Engineers surveyed the same stretch of the Carmel River two months ago and made plans to do some erosion control work on the south bank, once the rainy season is over. The Corps has not yet announced its decision on that work.

COUNTY CREWS surveyed the damage to the river bank, framed between two trees that once marked the roadway that served riverside residents before it washed out in earlier rainstorms this year.

CONCRETE riprap stored on the south bank of the Carmel River above Schulte Road bridge was bulldozed over the side to halt the corrosive effect of the river.

DEBRIS clogged the Carmel River, and some uprooted trees got jammed under the Schulte

Road bridge this week, as worried residents watched the river chew 30 feet from its bank.

Water reclamation funding is more likely

By MICHAEL GARDNER

TENTH MAY not be first, but it is a very good position to be in as far as the Carmel Sanitary District is concerned.

The Regional Water Quality Control Board has informed the district that its water reclamation project is number 10 on a proposed funding priority list.

The Carmel Sanitary District Board of Directors will discuss the priority list when it meets today (April 15).

All of the regional boards across the state develop proposed priority lists for funding of area projects. The state board makes the final decision on grant awards, which is expected to be announced in late September or early October.

If the approximately $11 million construction grant is approved by the state, work on the reclamation project could begin "almost immediately," said Manager Michael Zambory.

The money would provide $6.4 million for a reclamation pipeline, $4 million for treatment plant modifications, $550,000 for a collection system pump station, and $70,000 for ocean outfall line modifications, Zambory said.

Carmel will compete with three other area projects that received a higher placement on the priority list: Moss Landing, ranked first, has applied for $2.6 million for a collection system interceptor and treatment plant expansion; Monterey Regional Water Pollution Control Agency, ranked sixth, has asked for

MICHAEL ZAMBORY, manager of the Carmel Sanitary District, inspects the site where raw sewage spills into the Carmel River when the power goes out or during heavy rainstorms. Raw sewage poured into the river all last week and for more than 16 hours over the weekend. Monterey County Environmental Sanitarian Walter Wong said the prohibition against swimming and bathing at the mouth of the river in the beach area will remain in effect until more tests can be taken when the rains stop. This area has been posted off limits for fear the sewage spill could cause an outbreak of typhoid, hepatitis or other intestinal diseases, Wong said. Zambory will report on the sewage spill when the sanitary district meets at 1:30 p.m. today (April 15) at city hall. (Michael Gardner photo)

$36 million for a secondary treatment plant; and Watsonville, ranked eighth, has applied for $33 million to upgrade and expand its treatment plant and extend ocean outfall lines.

Asked if he expects the district to be awarded a grant, Zambory replied: "I don't know. It means we're in a good position. I feel good about it."

Zambory indicated the local water reclamation project was "way down there last year. We weren't even included in 1982-83."

Design of the $18.2 million project is almost completed. The $11 million grant is for the "actual physical construction," Zambory said.

Grants from the Environmental Protection Agency and the state will pay for 87.5 percent of the project with the remaining 12.5 percent of project costs to be paid by local taxpayers.

When completed, the Carmel project will provide reclaimed water to irrigate golf courses in Pebble Beach.

The project was developed to comply with a state order that the district stop discharging effluent into Carmel Bay between the months of May and October. Carmel Bay has been designated by the state as an "Area of Special Biological Significance."

In a related development, Zambory is expected to discuss the feasibility of a plan to sell reclaimed water to the Pacific Grove Municipal Golf Course.

Carmel Bach Festival seeks housing donations

By ROBERT MISKIMON

FOR MOST people, the Carmel Bach Festival means two weeks of baroque music professionally performed in the cozy atmosphere of Sunset Center.

But for a few hospitable Carmel and Carmel Valley folks, it means sharing friendships and living quarters with the musicians and singers who make the festival come alive.

They're the housing donors who each year open their doors to some of the performers from as far away as Los Angeles and New York. Those who have donated living quarters say the practice has become a way to become involved with the personalities and to become immersed in the mainstream of the Bach Festival.

But for some reason, the number of housing donors has steadily declined in recent years, and Bach Festival officials want to put out the word that donated housing space is needed for this year's festival.

"We're trying to reduce our expenditures for rental housing," said Alice Kinsler, festival development director. "We'd like to be able to use that money to increase the per diem payments to performers."

The festival spent $14,597 in 1980 for individual rental housing, and $19,535 in 1981 for those among the 66 orchestra and chorale members unable to stay in donated housing, Ms. Kinsler said.

The festival also provides a $10 daily housing allowance to festival performers who arrange their own housing in groups of three to five persons. The total amount spent on group housing allowances in 1980 was $6,372, and $7,000 in 1981, Ms. Kinsler said.

Altogether, the amount spent on individual and group housing rental amounts to about 10 percent of the total festival budget, she indicated. "Without more donated housing, rental costs during the 1982 season will increase again."

Dates of the festival this year are July 16 to Aug. 1. String musicians will be in Carmel for 35 days, from June 28 through Aug. 1. Woodwind and horn players will be here 32 days, from July 1 through Aug. 1.

Trombonists will be in Carmel for 26 days, from July 7 through Aug. 1, and the 26 chorale members 31 days, from July 2 through Aug. 1.

Staying with a local family helps first-time performers become acquainted with the community and makes their visit more pleasant, Ms. Kinsler said. The $24 per diem payment that performers receive is augmented by a steady round of meals and entertainment, she said.

"There's no obligation for the housing donors to feed them, or do anything other than provide a bed," Ms. Kinsler said. "It doesn't mean they have to give up their whole house."

SOME OF THE local residents who have donated housing to Bach Festival performers in recent years relate stories of friendship and warmth about their experiences.

"It's really a pleasure to have them," said Mrs. Elizabeth Winters of Carmel Valley, who had two members of the chorale stay with her in 1979 and 1981. She plans to repeat the experience this year.

"We've become friends and I look forward to having them back this year," Mrs. Winters said. "We've just had an absolutely delightful time. This is a way of being close to the Bach Festival and experiencing it firsthand."

The two chorale members who have stayed with Mrs. Winters are both from the Los Angeles area, and she has maintained contact with them between festivals.

The chorale singers "always have been very polite" and have been a pleasure to have around, Mrs. Winters said. "Housing donors are included in the festival parties, so you're really a part of the family."

"It's really a pleasure to have them," said Mrs. Elizabeth Winters of Carmel Valley, who had two members of the chorale stay with her in 1979 and 1981. She plans to repeat the experience this year.

Mrs. Samuel Felix of Carmel also has had chorale members stay in her home for the last several years.

"They're delightful," she said. "They give you an expanded feeling of the festival. Sometimes they bring their friends in to work out some difficult pieces. We play golf with them. They're entertaining and they're no nuisance."

"They're very gracious and very conscious of the household, and they interject themselves very little into your home. And when you go to the festival, you sit there and see your friends up on the stage."

"I'm very much in favor of this. It's good for local residents and good for the musicians."

Those who may be interested in providing housing space for festival musicians or chorale members should contact the Carmel Bach Festival at 624-1521, or by writing P.O. Box 575, Carmel, 93921.

PERFORMERS in the Carmel Bach Festival need housing in the community, and those who have donated housing to musicians and chorale members say the experience is a good way to become an active participant in the musical event. The festival this year seeks additional donated housing so it can increase payments to performers.

City proposes race rules

Carmel may soon have regulations covering organized running events within the city.

If the city council approves guidelines drafted by a special committee of the Business License and Code Review Board and approved by the full board at its meeting April 8, foot races would be limited to one race per quarter.

The committee also stated a preference for a specific route: "When possible to be staged on the north side of Ocean at Scenic and Del Mar and be run south on Scenic and north on San Antonio between 13th and Ocean."

Other conditions seek to minimize commercial aspects of foot races; give priority to local organizations; require a review of total race plans with the police department before they are submitted to the review board; limit races to the hours between 8 a.m. and 12 noon. The latter condition was included because of "conflicts with pedestrians and traffic after this period of time and conflicts with sleeping residents prior to 8 a.m."

Special consideration would be given to organizations which now hold annual races within the city. They would be given priority under the limits of one race per quarter.

The need for some form of regulation came to the board's attention as the result of a number of applications for permits to hold races within the city. One, for a championship race walk, was moved to Carmel Valley by its sponsors, for a less hilly route. A request to hold the third annual Race for Fun(d$), which benefits various Carmel High School activities, was denied by the board but later approved by the city council on appeal. A third race, to be sponsored by the Grunion Run restaurant for the benefit of the Hunger Project was also denied by the business license board; an appeal from that ruling will come before the city council next month.

Members of the board expressed their preference for guidelines rather than a more formal ordinance in order to have "greater flexibility."

Carmel renews the battle over CV building

By ROBERT MISKIMON

DEVELOPMENT at the mouth of Carmel Valley may have violated a court-ordered building moratorium, but probably will be consistent with the revised Carmel Valley Master Plan.

That was Carmel City Atty. George Brehmer's assessment of possible legal action by the city of Carmel against Monterey County over recently-approved zoning and use permits.

Brehmer told the council April 6 he still thinks 16 of the 27 zoning and use permits issued by the county since 1979 for construction at the mouth of the Valley are illegal.

But he interjected a note of caution when the council considered whether to initiate a lawsuit against the county over the permits.

"The city council must weigh action in light of the probability that the Carmel Valley Master Plan will approve the mouth of the Valley as an area of development concentration, and, therefore the projects in question will probably all be consistent with the Carmel Valley Master Plan as ultimately adopted," Brehmer advised the council.

The council directed Brehmer last month to inform the board of supervisors that the city of Carmel views issuance of those permits as violations of the Carmel Valley building moratorium.

The board of supervisors received and read the letter from Carmel, but did not respond to a request from the city that further applications for discretionary permits at the mouth of the Valley be reviewed and specific findings of compliance with the court order be made prior to issuance.

The moratorium on discretionary building permits in Carmel Valley was ordered by Monterey County Superior Court Judge Richard Silver in response to a lawsuit by the city of Carmel, which sought to have an environmental impact report prepared on the 1980 Carmel Valley Master Plan before adoption.

That EIR has been prepared and the board of supervisors has scheduled the next certification hearing for April 20.

Instead of authorizing the city attorney to proceed with the filing of a lawsuit to test the legality of those permits, the city council directed Brehmer to register "specific objection" to each permit deemed in violation of the court order.

Deputy County Counsel Jose Ramos indicated last month that the time for appeals of the permits in question to the board of supervisors had expired. Both Ramos and Planning Director Ed De Mars told the board of supervisors the permits were legal, Brehmer said.

Because of objections by Carmel, Monterey County Zoning Administrator Robert Slimmon delayed to May 13 consideration of a use permit which would allow Paul Kagan Associates to build a 20,000 sq. ft. office building at the mouth of the Valley.

IN A SEPARATE but related matter, the city council directed Brehmer to write another letter to the board of supervisors in support of "trigger" mechanisms in the Carmel Valley Master Plan.

Supervisors appeared to agree with a con-

BUILDING at the mouth of Carmel Valley continues despite the construction moratorium imposed by the Monterey County Superior Court until the Carmel Valley Master Plan is revised and readopted. However, objections from the city of Carmel caused Zoning Administrator Robert Slimmon to delay a hearing on a use permit for additional offices in the area.

sultant's analysis that the proposed environmental controls would be too costly and burdensome to implement.

Consideration of the trigger mechanisms as part of the environmental impact report on the Carmel Valley Master Plan has been delayed by the supervisors until April 20.

Trigger mechanisms would link development in Carmel Valley with specific indicators of air, noise, water, and traffic pollution — as well as water supply — and would require a halt to construction when certain levels are reached.

The city of Carmel and the Carmel Valley Property Owners Association have both endorsed the concept of trigger mechanisms to regulate growth in the Valley.

City Attorney Brehmer recently told the board of supervisors that unless a more detailed analysis of trigger mechanisms is included in the EIR, Carmel may take the county to court again.

"If the board takes short-cuts, you will be building in the basis for a legal challenge," Brehmer told the board of supervisors in February. "We're saying trigger mechanisms are valid mechanisms."

In his report to the city council last week, Brehmer indicated that although supervisors took no action on the trigger mechanisms March 29, "comments were made by several members of the board which lead to the conclusion that the triggering mechanisms will not be evaluated in the EIR."

The council authorized Brehmer to write to the board of supervisors and state:

- Trigger mechanisms do not need to be expensive to implement.
- Trigger devices "are not limits to be reached before development would be stopped if significant negative impact occurred prior to the reaching of the trigger mechanisms' limit."
- Trigger mechanisms "would set in motion procedures to be followed by the county which would vary in scope depending on what is called for in the Carmel Valley Master Plan and the zoning ordinances implementing it."

Instead of authorizing the city attorney to proceed with the filing of a lawsuit to test the legality of those permits, the city council directed Brehmer to register "specific objection" to each permit deemed in violation of the court order.

The city council tabled consideration of a position on whether unincorporated areas north and south of Carmel should be excluded from the Carmel Valley Master Plan, as was suggested recently by county planning staff.

Proposed for exclusion are the eastern Odello Ranch, the Garcia and Mahroom parcels, the High Meadows area, and the Fish, Point Lobos and San Carlos ranches.

County Planning Director Ed De Mars said the Odello, Fish, Point Lobos, and San Carlos ranches are within the jurisdiction of the Coastal Act planning laws, and the other areas will be included in the Greater Monterey Peninsula Planning Area.

The Monterey County Planning Commission was to consider areas proposed for exclusion at its April 14 meeting.

"If the city council agrees to an exclusion, it is probable that the court order imposing the (Carmel Valley) moratorium would be modified by the court at the county's request," Brehmer advised the council.

"The city council's agreeing will remove the legal obstacle and pave the way for immediate exclusion."

The county could ask the court to exclude the areas from the Master Plan without the consent of the city, or it could wait until the Master Plan is adopted and the moratorium is no longer in effect, Brehmer said.

Muston wins sign appeal in city council hearing

DAVID MUSTON, co-owner of Carmel Camera Center, has discovered that you can fight city hall and sometimes win.

The Carmel City Council April 6 overturned a planning commission decision and granted Muston his application for two new signs at his business, southwest corner of San Carlos and Fifth. Councilman Mike Brown voted no.

The decision limited Muston's sign to 35 inches across and 22 inches down and also restricted the size of the letters. Colors granted were brown for the background, yellow letters and an orange trim.

Muston appeared before the planning commission several times with several different signs, but each was rejected on the basis of color and size.

In his appeal to the council, Muston said: "I respectfully submit the reason my application was denied was because one commissioner who doesn't favor yellow as a color grossly over-stepped her authority and rallied the commission to deny my requested signs, as Mr. (Bob) Stephenson stated, (the signs) are legal size, legal color and nicely designed."

The commissioner to whom Muston referred is Sandy Swain, who objected to his signs. She said she favored the ones he already had on the building. Muston subsequently destroyed those signs.

After the council meeting, Muston said he had no comment on the council decision.

Muston's victory has also set the stage for another appeal — this one from Sam Goldman, who is co-owner of Do Re Mi Records in The Barnyard and Carmel Plaza.

Goldman had asked the commission to allow a sign at the Plaza site than included his logo — a green frog with a red rose in its mouth.

But the commission rejected the frog logo so Goldman will appeal to the council April 20.

Goldman claims it is his constitutional right to include the logo on the sign. He has threatened to take the city to court if it is not allowed.

What's the latest thinking on tax shelters?

If you're in a position to benefit from a tax shelter — an investor with a net worth over $200,000 and/or a current income over $60,000 — you're fortunate indeed.

But a tax shelter must first be a good investment based on sound economics. Second, its tax advantages should allow you to realize current tax savings via special deductions that not only lower your tax rates, but can also offer partially or fully sheltered cash flow.

As your accountant will explain, a good tax shelter shelters your current income while providing a residual asset. But there are so many tax shelters, how do you find one suitable for you?

Ask a Kidder, Peabody stockbroker for his thoughts. He is a professional, experienced in helping upper-income individuals maximize their investable dollars. Further, he has access to some of the latest and best thinking on tax shelters. Because experts in the firm's Tax Shelter Department examine hundreds of tax-advantaged opportunities each year. They cull out well over 90% and carefully scrutinize the remaining — focusing on management, financial stability, past performance, tax considerations and return on investment. Freeway issue may return to council

By ROBERT MISKIMON

ONCE THE DUST from the April 13 election has settled, a top priority item for the Carmel City Council will be another look at the controversial Hatton Canyon Freeway.

Although the council has not come out totally in support of the freeway, it came close April 6 when it adopted unanimously a position opposed to state disposal of the right-of-way.

The state Department of Transportation has notified local governments that the State Transportation Commission may rescind the freeway and sell the right-of-way properties.

Cal-Trans plans to hold a public hearing sometime before June 1 — the deadline by which local citizens and governments are to state their positions on the 26-year-old freeway project.

The position taken by the council last week was that "under no circumstances should the state consider selling off the right-of-way" for the Hatton Canyon Freeway. Cal-Trans officials have estimated potential sale value at $5 million.

And a recent report by Cal-Trans District Director of Transportation Jesus Garcia indicated "the Hatton Canyon Freeway probably can not be funded by the state for at least 15 or 20 years."

In a previous position taken Jan. 28 on the freeway, the city council endorsed a recommendation by the Coastal Commission staff for inclusion in the Carmel area Local Coastal Program.

That position supports widening of Highway 1 between the mouth of Carmel Valley and the top of Carmel Hill — if the Hatton Canyon Freeway is not constructed.

At that time, the council decided to ask Cal-Trans to consider downgrading the project from a "freeway" to a "parkway" which would be more environmentally acceptable.

The Carmel City Council has both supported and opposed the freeway project through the years. Here are statements made by council members on the issue on recent dates:

• Councilman Frank Lloyd: "Something has to give ultimately. The only thing practical is to widen Highway 1 and forget about the Hatton Canyon Freeway." — Jan. 28, 1982. "It's still not built and it's still a ways off. I support Earl Moser's resolution (to support construction of a four-lane Hatton Canyon road if the plan can be redesigned by the state to minimize environmental damage)." — April 6, 1982.

• Councilwoman Helen Arnold: "I would like to see a two-lane road through Hatton Canyon northbound, and Highway 1 as a two-lane road southbound with an interconnecting road. We have a choice of two, two-lane roads going both ways or one going north and one south." — Jan. 28, 1982. "I support a scenic freeway through the canyon, but I do not approve of widening Highway 1 in any way. The question of removing trees is not important, in my opinion." — April 6, 1982.

• Councilman Mike Brown: "To get a toe in the door, we could widen Highway 1 to three lanes." — Jan. 28, 1982. "I support Mr. Moser's resolution, except for the 'four-lane' phrase." — April 6, 1982.

• Former Councilman Howard Brunn: "We should leave the option open to widen Highway 1 and pursue designing a low-key freeway through that land." — April 6, 1982. "Do nothing...even if the lines of cars back up to Big Sur. We all ought to be willing to suffer." — July 27, 1978.

ABOUT 20 citizens addressed the Carmel City Council April 6 on the freeway issue. They included environmentalist Earl Moser of Carmel Valley, who proposed a resolution for council consideration.

That resolution notes that engineering plans for the Hatton Canyon Freeway, unchanged since the 1960s, call for cuts and fills which would "expose steep, rocky gashes difficult, or impossible to revegetate and large areas of timbered slopes would be denuded."

"You can stop progress," Norberg said. "You can slow progress. I don't think we should accept any part of the attitude that says you can't stop progress. Unfortunately, the board of supervisors hasn't had much of an effect on stopping progress."

Moser's resolution — which was not adopted by the council — would ask Cal-Trans to prepare new plans for a Hatton Canyon "highway" with a full investigation of alternatives to the traditional cut-and-fill procedure, including the borrowing of nearby fill and tunnelling at the top of Carmel Hill.

"When Cal-Trans prepares a revised and satisfactory plan, this body (city council) believes it will then support the building of a four-lane highway in Hatton Canyon."

Bill Stowers of Carmel Valley was one of about 15 speakers who supported the Hatton Canyon Freeway.

"We demand that a roadway be built," Stowers told the council. "You can not stop progress. You can not develop hundreds and hundreds of homes down the coast without a roadway. This is a bottleneck."

"If you're going to continue developing Carmel Valley and the Odello Ranch, you'll have thousands and thousands of cars and they can't go anywhere."

Gunnar Norberg of Carmel, former mayor and councilman, reaffirmed his longstanding opposition to the project.

"You can stop progress," Norberg said. "You can slow progress. I don't think we should accept any part of the attitude that says you can't stop progress. Unfortunately, the board of supervisors hasn't had much of an effect on stopping progress."

DONALD NELSON, manager of the Bank of Carmel, holds one of the tee-shirts for the annual Run for Fun(d$), which will be held April 18 at Carmel High School. The bank donated $1,500 for the shirts, which will be sold for $5 each. The event will feature two races: a 1.1 mile fun run and a four-mile foot race. Trophies will be awarded to the first-place finisher in each division of the four-mile race. Registration will begin at 9 a.m. and the races will start at 10 a.m. Entry fee is $5 for adults and $2 for students. There will be a potluck barbecue on the beach near Ocean Avenue after the race. Soft drinks and desserts will be available at booths operated by the school classes. The Run for Fun(d$) will benefit the academic, scholarship and athletic programs at Carmel High School. For more information, call Deide Kramer, publicity chairwoman, at 624-1507.

AT THE starting line practicing for the annual Run for Fun(d$), which will be held April 18 at Carmel High School, are: (from

Grunion Run appeals race permit denial

By FLORENCE MASON

THE GRUNION Run restaurant will appeal the denial of its application to hold a "Grunion Run Run" to benefit the Hunger Project.

That's the word from Rudy Reate, co-owner of the restaurant. "We'll take it to the city council next month," he said. "We didn't want to complicate the high school's appeal; now that that's out of the way, we'll go ahead with ours."

Both applications for permits to hold running races in Carmel were turned down by the Business License and Code Review Board, whose members indicated they thought it was time to take a stand against the proliferation of such events. The Carmel High School third annual Run for Fun(d$) won the city council's approval on appeal. That run will take place next Sunday, April 18 from the high school down Ocean Avenue to the beach.

The Grunion Run Run was originally planned for a 4.1-mile route to start and finish at the restaurant (Mission and Fourth), including Scenic Road from Ocean Avenue to Carmelo. The race would be limited to 300 entrants.

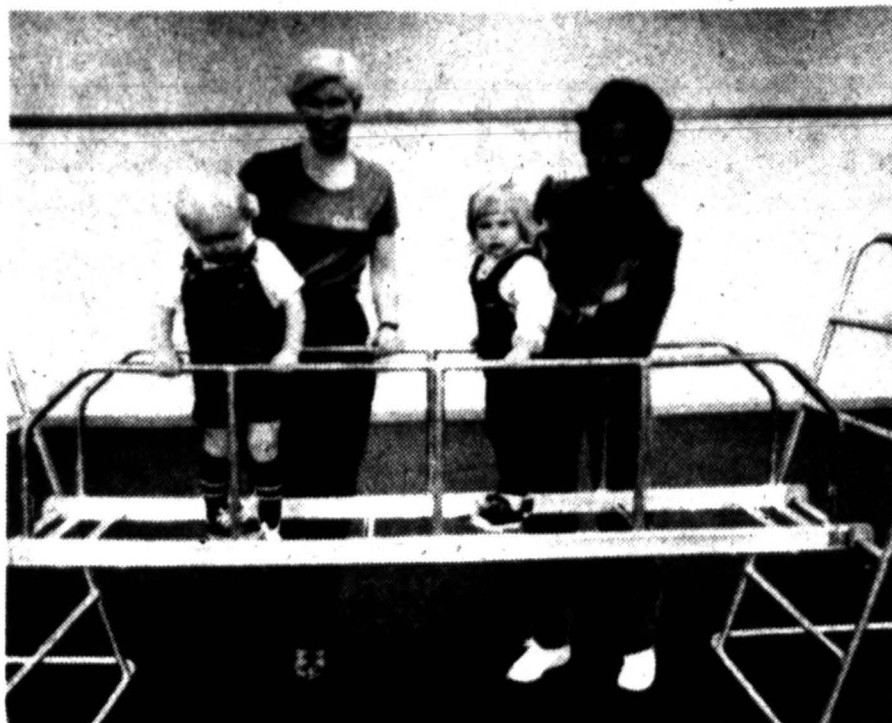

CHILD'S PLAY WITH A PURPOSE

Now there is at least one answer to the frequently heard lament, "There isn't anything for kids to do in Carmel." It's an answer for one segment of the younger population — the youngest, and their parents. It's "Gymboree."

This "quality motor-sensory play program" for infants and pre-schoolers (ages three months to four years) came to the Monterey Peninsula last week with open houses in Pacific Grove and Carmel. Classes are now underway at Sunset Center for local small fry.

The idea came to one mother — Joan Barnes — in 1973. First called Kindergym, her concept of a toddler motor program expanded from San Mateo to other San Francisco Bay Area locations. Now, as Gymboree, there are 35 franchises in California, two in Arizona, and one in New York. There are plans to "go national," with the prospect of 1,500 facilities in the next five years.

The Carmel connection is provided by two young Santa Cruz county mothers — Linda Diehl and Julie Niland — with Liz Mannix as the local instructor. Mrs. Diehl and Mrs. Niland have the Gymboree franchise for the Monterey Bay area. For a time, parents and children came from Monterey, Pacific Grove and Carmel to join classes in Aptos.

That suggested to the operators they should open a local facility. They had no trouble enlisting the interest of Sunset Center Director Richard Tyler for rental of rooms.

The original Kindergym came into being to answer the needs of its founder, and this is how Linda Diehl describes the start of her own interest in having a Gymboree franchise:

"I was an elementary school teacher with children of my own. When my first child, now four, was about 18 months old, I started looking in Santa Cruz County for a quality program for him which he could use and test his developing skills. I found Kindergym and was a parent in that program for a year. With a lot of enthusiasm for teaching it myself, I got in when franchising first started."

Julie Niland, who has two children of her own, stressed the importance of the first three years in a child's life as the time when the groundwork for subsequent learning is established.

"Gymboree provides active little ones with an environment of their own," she said. "It's a safe, warm play environment, designed just for them." What does your child do in that environment? "Jump, slide, tumble, touch, explore, or just observe." Parents are actively involved. It's fun, and play at Gymboree is also serious business, Mrs. Diehl said. "Play is how your little ones learn about their world."

THE LATEST WORD

AT THE CROSSROAD: BRITTANY'S

Louise Hesemeyer and her son, Charles Webb, didn't quite make their goal of opening a new shop in The Crossroads in time for the spring fashions. Or perhaps they did . . . what ever became of our spring?

In any event, "Brittany's" is now open. There is no question that it meets Mrs. Hesemeyer's goal of providing an answer to the demand she saw for classic clothes for women. Among the designers: Jones of New York, Bill Atkinson, White Stag, Cole of California, Gottex and Livia. Separates are featured, but that's not all; there is evening wear to be had too, in a luxurious setting of antique mirrors, chandeliers and Laura Ashley prints.

Mrs. Hesemeyer, a Carmel Woods resident, is also the owner of Brass of California in The Barnyard. And who — or what — is "Brittany"? The store is named for its owner's "best friend" — a golden retriever.

STILL TO COME AT THE CROSSROADS (and in a future column, in more detail): the Bagel Bakery, already in Monterey and Pacific Grove. And the Arctic Bay Co., the only place in the United States which handles a "gallery" of products directly from the famed Hudson's Bay Co.

TOUCH FOR HEALTH

A former rock musician and a former advertising woman who "burned out" in that business are now state-certified Touch for Health instructors and trainers. Phillip and Nancy Crockford came to my attention recently because they are opening classes at Sunset Center. After several years of living here but going out of the area to teach and provide the Touch for Health experience, they are delighted with their decision to stay closer to home.

LOUISE HESEMAYER has opened the newest store at The Crossroads called "Brittany's," which offers classic clothes for women. The store is named after Ms. Hesemeyer's champion golden retriever Brittany.

What is "Touch of Health"? It's a system first published in book form in 1974 by a Pasadena chiropractor, John Phie. It is a synthesis of skills in applied kinesiology (muscle testing) and acupuncture touch. That's acupuncture using touch instead of needles. Its aim is to get the whole body into balance, and not to concentrate on single symptoms, as do both acupuncture and acupressure.

Another feature of the system is massage of certain reflex points to stimulate circulation.

The Crockfords are "an Australian-American combo" Nancy said. They met because of their mutual interest in Touch For Health. Nancy has lived in Carmel since 1974; Phillip joined her here in 1980. Phillip is the Australian part of the combo. He is in Australia until May 3, as one of the trainers for instructor training workshops.

A related field in which Mrs. Crockford has been involved, as teacher and consultant, is stress management. It was her own need for stress management that led to her interest in that field, and eventually to Touch for Health. "I burned out of the advertising business," she said, "actually becoming ill. I decided there had to be another way."

That was the path which eventually led to Touch for Health, her marriage, and the couple's practice in Carmel. Touch for Health is now being taught throughout the United States and in 22 other countries.

THE TERWILIGERS THREE

The Port of Carmel is now a family business. Patricia Terwiliger has been on the scene for nearly a year as manager of the Doud Arcade shop; now her parents — Fred and Dorothy Terwiliger — have taken over from Greg Schafer as owners. They have asked manager Terwiliger to stay on.

Ms. Terwiliger told us that she had already begun the process of upgrading the merchandise in the Port of Carmel to what she termed "more unique and special gifts," and will continue that process under her parents' ownership. She thinks more residents than tourists will be attracted to the shop, but expects the tourists "to flow in" with the tide of local persons.

Ms. Terwiliger has her own home in Pacific Grove, where her parents also live. Her chief avocation is painting, although she claims only to be "a dabbler." I wanted to be a serious artist," she said, "but I haven't gotten there yet."

The senior Terwiligers will continue their present activities: Fred Terwiliger as a steel salesman (and golfer), Dorothy Terwiliger as a housewife. Terwiliger is also devoted to running, which he can be seen doing in Pacific Grove every morning. Rain or shine?

AN UPDATED GEMOLOGIST

If you happen to picture gemologists as quiet and provincial, hearing about recent activities of Gordon Greeson may change that picture.

Greeson, a certified gemologist associated with Carmel's Henri Corbat, recently returned from "updating" his professional knowledge. What he learned makes his trip sound adventurous.

First it was a one-day seminar in Los Angeles to perfect his skills with "the only internationally recognized colored stone grading system available to the jewelry industry."

Then, he spent five days in a symposium — the first such ever held in the United States — where more than 40 speakers presented such topics as current gemstone color enhancement treatment, their detection, current mining prospects and the availability of gem material for the future. Renowned international figures in the field from Switzerland and the USSR as well as the United States were among the speakers.

CARMEL'S MARSHALL GROUP HIRES A CARMELITE

The newest member of the staff in the burgeoning Marshall Group Personnel Service is Lucetta Merrill, who is delighted to be working in the city where she has lived since 1970.

Ms. Merrill has a bachelor's degree from Mills College and a master's in psychology from the Fielding Institute in Santa Barbara. She'll use her counseling experience to assist applicants and business clients in the temporary placement division.

She has been a volunteer through the Junior League for about 10 years, a member of the board of Lyceum of Monterey Peninsula and has been active in the Children's Experimental Theater. She is also associated with the Carmel chapter of American Field Service.

Outside of business, she particularly enjoys the Big Sur coast and a variety of outdoor activities. And she is in an aerobic dancing class. But much of her "spare" time is spent with and for her two daughters. One, Charlyne, graduated from Carmel High School last year and is now a freshman at Mills; the younger, Melissa, is a CHS sophomore.

IT'S ABOUT TIME

Doug Beauchamp called to say that his workshop on time management (reported in this column, April 1) was so successful he has scheduled another. The date is Saturday, April 24. The unique concept of a "time binder" just might offer a way out of your time bind!

CHANGES ...

Richard Soell came from New York to take over Jack London's restaurant and bar from owners Nick and Rita Deroche.

Bartlett Music, Dolores near Fifth, sports a new look. Pine paneling has replaced the plywood walls, there are cases for handmade guitars, handmade mandolins now have their own special place above the door and there is more storage space. Especially delightful for the customers is a new feeling of spaciousness, won through the additional enclosures and the storage space. Everything in its place now, and a place for everything?

There is a unique business for sale in Carmel Valley. The name — Jack and the Beanstalk — won't tell you exactly what it is, but still, it's relevant. It is a company that produces and distributes tofu.

If you don't already know about tofu, it is made from soybean curd and is eaten raw or used in cooking (much as cheese might be). The local plant supplies customers on the Peninsula and north to San Francisco, natural food stores, Oriental shops and restaurants.

Owner Nobu Katsu, who has had the business for about a year and a half, is selling in order to return to Japan. He said it can be run by just two people.

Judy Root has an ideal job for a skiing enthusiast

By GLEN PUTMAN

FORMER CARMELITE Judy Root can't control the pixie smile that creeps across her tanned face when she admits she has a pretty unusual job. Some people would say it's ideal — at least for anyone who dreams of skiing every day on some of the finest snow in the world.

Judy, who attended Carmel High School as a freshman and sophomore (class of 1970), is a sales representative at Deer Valley, America's newest ski resort. She actually gets paid for working there!

"I'm on the hill a lot," says the perky Judy. "I do a lot of travel agent familiarization tours." She also takes ski and travel writers on guided tours over the carefully planned and immaculately groomed slopes of this luxurious resort, located just 45 minutes from the Salt Lake City airport.

Although Deer Valley opened last December for its premier season, Judy Root has actually been on the payroll for two years. During the 1980-81 season Judy and others from the marketing department conducted VIP ski tours of the mountain via snowcat since no lifts were in operation.

Judy has been in Utah since 1978, working first as a snow hostess at the Park City ski area. It was her brother, Garry, who first introduced her to the delights of Utah skiing. He now lives in Carmel Valley. Their parents, Col. (USA, Ret.) and Mrs. James T. Root (Jim and Betty) live in Carmel Woods. Jim Root is chief administrator of Del Mesa Carmel in Carmel Valley. "They hang out at

The Clock restaurant on Friday afternoon," laughs Judy.

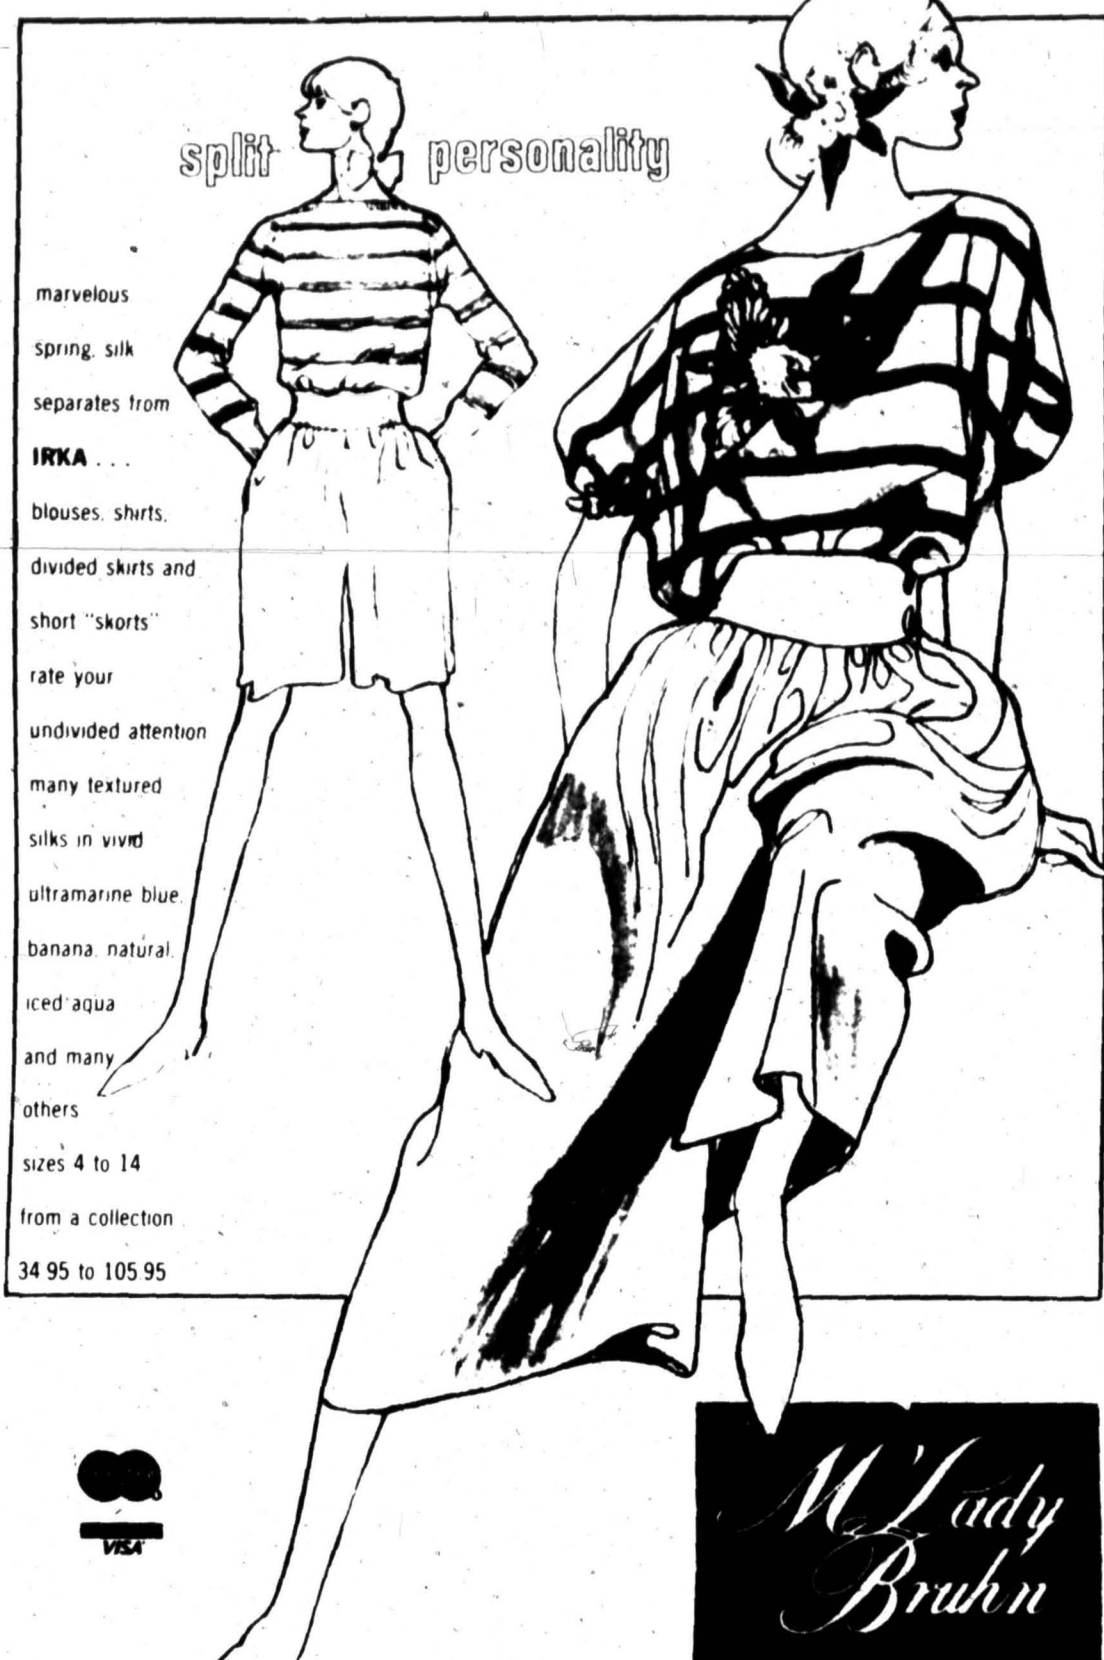

Judy attended Monterey Peninsula College from 1970 to 1972. "I was graduated from high school in Germany, where my father was stationed," she explains. She was graduated from UC Santa Barbara in 1974 and received her master's degree in legal studies from Lone Mountain College, San Francisco in 1976.

Judy worked for a Monterey law firm for a couple of years. "Between 1978 and '80, I sort of bopped back and forth between Utah and Carmel," she smiles. "Now I get back about three times a year. I love to bring friends who have never been to the Carmel/Monterey area and show them all the neat shops and restaurants."

Judy expects to be skiing through April. As for her plans after that, "I hope to be back for the U.S. Open this summer."

Council will hear appeal on Sade's Bar restaurant

A PUBLIC HEARING on whether Sade's Bar can expand into a restaurant will probably not be held by the city council until May 4.

The applicants have indicated their attorney, Sidney Morris, will be out of town when the council meets April 20, which was the scheduled appeal date. The council usually postpones hearings at the request of the applicant.

An application by Sade's to add a kitchen at the bar, south side of Ocean between Lincoln and Monte Verde, was denied by the board of adjustments March 24. That rejection has been appealed to the council.

In a letter to the council, Morris wrote that a new bar and grill restaurant would be "residentially oriented," which is encouraged by the city.

Morris added that the restaurant use is permitted under city ordinances and that the board of adjustments "misinterpreted" the moratorium law against proliferation of non-resident oriented business uses.

In its unanimous decision, the board ruled that the application fell under the general plan moratorium that prohibits the expansion of food service establishments in the city unless the use can be "reasonably expected" to be allowed under the revised general plan when it is completed.

At the board meeting, Scandia Restaurant owners, through attorney Ted Orliss, argued that the Sade's application falls under the moratorium.

And Orliss also claimed that allowing Sade's to expand into a restaurant would create "unfair competition" because Scandia's does not have a liquor license.

Orliss claimed liquor licenses are difficult to obtain because there are so few available and the cost is prohibitive — about $80,000.

Eleanor Burch, co-owner of Sade's, said the restaurant menu would include fish, steak, hot sausage, shoestring style french fries, soups and salads.

She noted the Sade's did serve food up until 1969.

Gifts provide more than books for Carmel library

By MICHAEL GARDNER

WHAT DO YOU do with an autograph collection, a painting of an American Indian or a life-size sculpture of Father Junipero Serra?

Those are just a few of the non-monetary bequests given to the Harrison Memorial Library through the years.

The bulk of the gifts left to the library in wills are in monetary form but often an estate will also provide photographs, paintings, etchings and sculptures.

But, except for a couple of paintings and the sculpture of Father Serra, the gifts are rarely seen.

"The real problem is we don't have the space we need," said Library Director Peg Richter. "We have very interesting things. We just don't have the space to display them."

Security also poses a problem for the library since many of the art works could be easily stolen if displayed openly, said Ms. Richter.

Mrs. Richter hopes that if a library annex is constructed, one room could be used to display some of the more interesting art works and collections.

An important collection of Carmel photographer Edward Weston's prints has been donated to the library, but there is no safe place to exhibit them.

Ms. Richter said photographers and researchers can make special arrangements to view the photographs, which are stored in "a very safe place."

As part of the Herbert Tolfree estate, settled in 1966, the library received approximately $62,000 in cash and his autograph collection.

That collection includes autographs of famous people and notes and letters from such historical figures as Charles Dickens and Adlai Stevenson.

"The question we are often asked is, 'Why don't we sell them?'" said Ms. Richter. "These are gifts to the library and most of the artists are local."

"Our biggest hope is the annex would give us room to display them so the people of Carmel can enjoy these things. I think it's part of Carmel's heritage."

However, some gifts are large enough not to pose security problems and have been on display in the library for many years.

Three of the most visible include Armin Hansen's "The Birth of Carmel," which is above the check-out desk; Howell Armor's sculpture of Father Junipero Serra, which stands in the reading room; and an oil painting of Carmel's illustrious American Indian, Red Eagle, which hangs in the children's room.

ALTHOUGH THE library accepts

many different gifts, Ms. Richter said donors still living are asked to sign a waiver form that will allow the board of directors to sell the donations.

Bequests and donations have enlarged the coffers of Harrison Memorial Library to nearly $700,000, Ms. Richter said.

The money is invested in secured, interest-bearing money market and treasury bill accounts.

Most of the funds are used for capital improvements not covered by monies provided by the city council, said Ms. Richter.

The principal can only be spent for programs stipulated by the donor, however the interest can be used as the library board sees fit, she added.

The library was constructed in the 1920s thanks to a $20,000 gift from the estate of Ella Reid Harrison, whose only stipulation was that the library be named after her husband.

Like the couple who sold their Carmel home 20 years ago for $40,000 and watched the value escalate to $250,000, so too must the library directors wonder "what if?"

In 1962, the estate of James Austin left the library two vacant lots in Carmel, one in Pebble Beach and two in Paso Robles. The lots were sold for $177,000 and the money was invested. The property is not worth much more than that.

However, Ms. Richter believes the library board made a proper decision.

"It really isn't in the best interests of the library to be a landlord," she said. "I really think, as a public institution, it's better to liquidate and invest."

Tolfree's estate settled in 1962 also left $62,000 and the above-mentioned autograph collection.

Mrs. Richter added that many of the wills leave smaller sums to the library, usually in the $5,000 range.

Some of the wills restrict use of the money. One limited the library to use of the funds solely for the purchase of "books dedicated to the research and study of the Declaration of Independence." Another said the money could only go toward the purchase of medical or juvenile books.

But whatever the gift may be, in these financially-strapped times, the library will almost certainly accept it, she said.

And they are all tax-deductible.

New program provides tax-saving bequests for the library

A $20,000 BEQUEST built Harrison Memorial Library more than half a century ago.

But when Ella Reid Harrison included the library in her will back in 1923, she knew the only "real" personal benefit she would received was that the new public facility would be named after her husband.

Today it is a different story.

The Harrison Memorial Library Board of Trustees has adopted a program for philanthropists who can now receive tax savings while still alive.

The new program is called "deferred gift planning" and will be operated through Charles Hudson, an investment advisor with the Carmel firm of Yates, Downer, Dyer and Kirkpatrick, Inc.

"The idea is that government is providing financial incentives for individuals to go out and assist charitable causes," Hudson said. "The idea with a deferred giving program is to give individuals the ability to give large gifts that really make a difference."

There are several different kinds of programs that are tailored to an individual's personal donation and tax advantage needs, said Hudson.

For example, a person could donate shares of stock with a current yield of percent. That stock could be liquidated and the cash would

The cost to the library is approximately $200 per year, which covers the administrative task of preparing checks for the donors, he said.

Hudson's firm will receive a stipend from the investment company that will handle the library account, he said.

Hudson also offers free consultations with individuals who would like to consider the deferred gift planning program.

More information is available from Hudson at 624-2727 or Library Director Peg Richter at 624-4629.

be invested into a professionally managed bond or stock portfolio, Hudson said.

The dividends would be higher than what was earned by the original stock and the donor would not have to pay capital gains taxes for selling the stock, Hudson said.

The donor would be paid his dividend monthly and when he does die, the entire portfolio would be transferred to the library.

Real property and cash could also be donated and invested for the individual. The individual would escape capital gains tax liability and reap a monthly paycheck, he said.

"In addition, a significant tax deduction from current income may be available in the current year," Hudson added.

The benefit for the library, however, comes only when the individual's estate is settled, Hudson said.

CHARLES HUDSON will handle the new "deferred gift planning" program for Harrison Memorial Library.

Social Security move to Carmel stirs protests, prompts a probe

By ROBERT MISKIMON

CAN THE Social Security Administration adequately serve the needs of the Monterey Peninsula in its new location at Carmel Rancho Shopping Center.

It's been only one month since the Social Security office moved there after 15 years in one location in Monterey, but some people already have their doubts.

One of them is Congressman Leon Panetta, who has called the move to Carmel "unfortunate" and a "disservice" to the public. Panetta has asked for an investigation by a Congressional subcommittee.

The question was raised by Fritz Von Berg of Monterey, who said he lived near the old Social Security office at 399 Lighthouse and had the opportunity to discuss the move with other citizens.

"Everyone I've talked with has mentioned the traffic problem in getting to Carmel Rancho and the fact that the office is upstairs," Von Berg said. "They don't know why the office wasn't more centrally located. Why wasn't there more of a public debate about this?"

Frank Figueroa, district Social Security manager, said the office was moved only after the General Services Administration spent two years looking for a new location.

Social Security officials stated a preference for a location in central Monterey, and newspaper solicitations for office quarters were published twice before the present location was chosen, Figueroa said.

After the first solicitation, the only "responsive" offer was from the owner of the SOCIAL SECURITY offices at Carmel Rancho are actually somewhat smaller than in former quarters in Monterey, but the space is arranged better to afford more privacy and better working conditions.

The federal government should have made public the actual cost figures involved in past and present locations, Congressman Panetta said.

others they were not interested," Figueroa said.

But Congressman Panetta believes the process followed by the General Services Administration did not allow sufficient advance notice to the public so their views could be considered in relocation of the office.

Although the new location at Carmel Rancho is close to public transportation and the Social Security Administration tries to conduct most business by telephone, public access is important, Panetta indicated.

"The major consideration should not be the physical location of a bus stop but the total travel time that senior citizens and the disabled, traveling from outlying cities, must endure to reach the new location," Panetta wrote to Von Berg.

"A large majority of senior citizens reside in Pacific Grove, Monterey and Seaside. For many senior citizens, driving in town is feasible whereas attempting to reach an agency via the freeway is not only frightening but dangerous."

The federal government should have made public the actual cost figures involved in past and present locations, Congressman Panetta said.

"It would have been helpful if a more in-depth analysis of the selection process could have been offered to support the cost effectiveness of the selection," he said. "The formula for determining the responsiveness of an offer could have been provided."

"Statistics comparing the present rent at the Carmel Rancho location, the bid of the previous lessor, and bids considered to be irresponsible could have been presented to give a clearer picture of the selection process."

"While it is unfortunate that the move is now completed, I believe that the procedure used in this relocation was a disservice to those served by the Social Security Administration," Panetta said.

Figueroa told the Pine Cone/Outlook that complaints registered about the new office location have dwindled to only a few since the new facility was opened March 2.

"The great majority of the complaints were in the first week after the move," Figueroa said. "Most of them say it's hard finding the place. Eighty percent of our business can be handled by telephone. That's another reason why we don't think our geographic location is that important."

"Our preference is to be in a building built to our own specifications, to be well-equipped in an office that's strategically set up. There's not a lot of office space available. It has to be handicapped-equipped. We are not dissatisfied with this location.

"A lot of retired people like to come in and just visit. We anticipate less in-office traffic here, probably because our location is not on a major thoroughfare."

Figueroa said the majority of the 1,350 Social Security offices nationwide are located in privately-owned, leased facilities.

SUSAN CROSSON, manager of the local Social Security office in Monterey for two years before the recent move, believes the questions raised about accessibility of the new location are valid.

On the other hand, there hasn't been an appreciable change in the volume of walk-in clients or telephone contacts since the move, Ms. Crosson said.

"The number of people walking in or phoning is about the same," she said. "The traffic hasn't changed much. A low week for us is about 400 to 500 people coming in."

The new office is equipped with handicapped facilities which didn't exist at the old location. Although the total space at the Carmel Rancho office is about 500 sq. ft. less than the Monterey office, it is better arranged to provide privacy for clients and work space for the 21 employees, Ms. Crosson said.

"A lot of retired people like to come in and just visit. We anticipate less in-office traffic here, probably because our location is not on a major thoroughfare."

"When I got here two years ago, the lease was up at the other office," she said. "I had no personal preference for a new location. The biggest question that most commonly comes up is, 'Why not Seaside or Marina where the rents are cheaper?'"

"I don't know the answer, but I suppose a lot of people who had the space probably decided they didn't want to deal with the government because of all the regulations and specifications we have for an office."

Ms. Crosson acknowledged that the new location is at the fringe of the population center of the Monterey Peninsula, but added: "We serve people clear down to Big Sur, and they have to be considered, too."

Social Security encourages citizens to conduct their business by telephone not the agency doesn't want walk-in traffic, but "simply as a cost-saving and time-saving device."

"We can't hire any more people and yet we're serving more people every year," she said. "We understand when someone wants to come in personally the first time they make a claim. That's a big event."

MANAGER Susan Crosson says the volume of telephone calls and walk-in clientele hasn't changed appreciably since the Social Security Administration office moved from Monterey to the mouth of Carmel Valley.

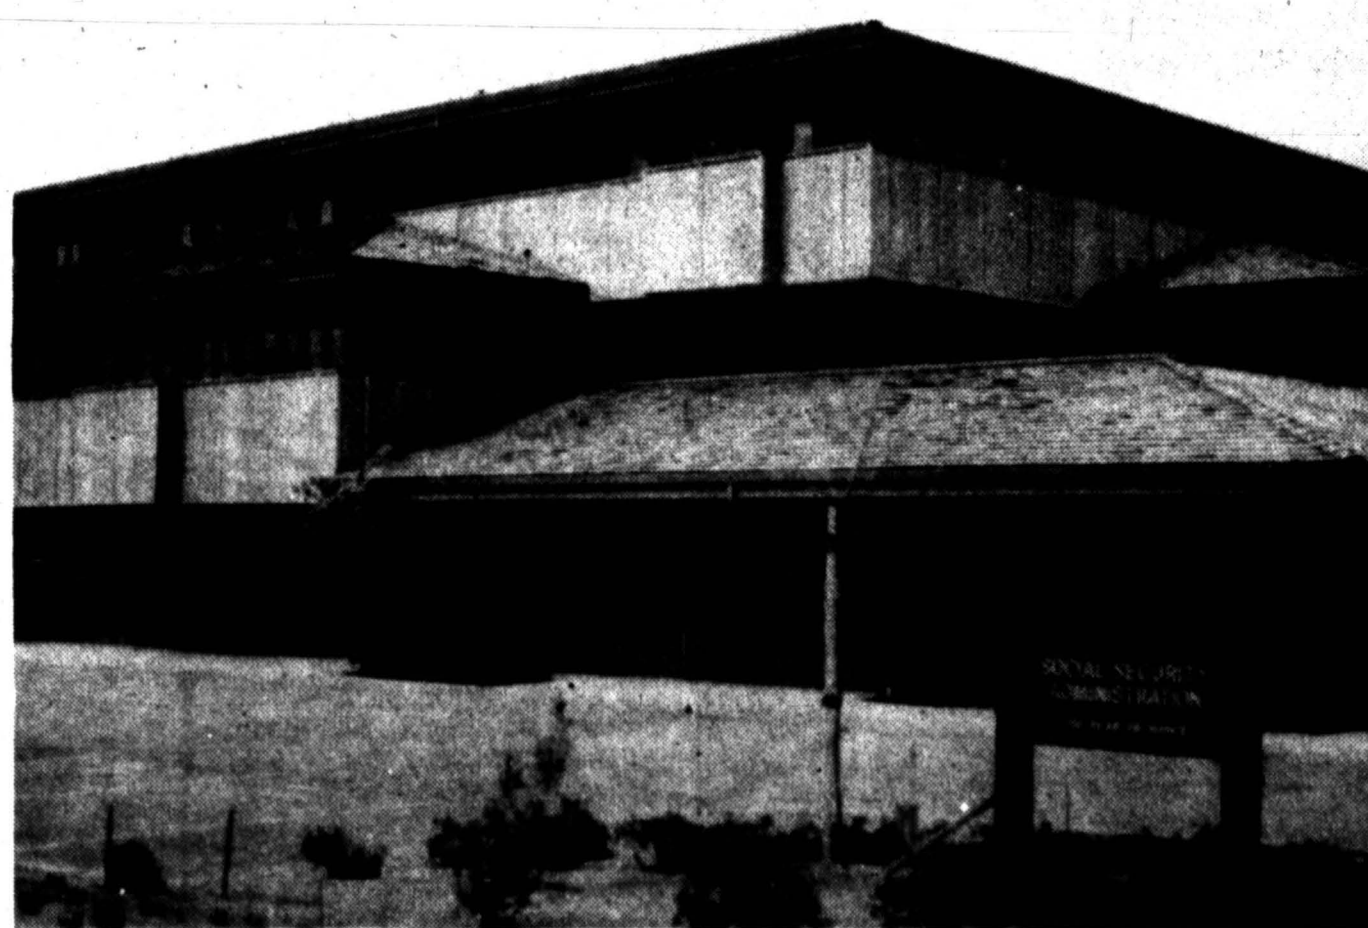

property in Monterey where the office was located before the move, Figueroa explained in a letter to Congressman Panetta.

"After several months of negotiations, agreement could not be reached between the lessor and GSA," Figueroa indicated. "It is my personal opinion that the lack of other competition did not help the negotiation process. Although I am not privy to any of GSA's negotiations, it is obvious that GSA would not pay what the lessor wanted and the lessor possibly felt he was in the driver's seat because GSA had no other alternative to his space."

The original solicitation specified a location "in the central business area of Monterey and (that) no other location would be acceptable," Figueroa said. The second solicitation expanded the acceptable area to include all of Monterey and Pacific Grove, as well as the Carmel Rancho area.

There were only two "responsive" offers from the second advertisement — the former landlord and the present property owner in Carmel Rancho. The new, five-year lease was signed between the property owner and the General Services Administration "after protracted negotiations," Figueroa indicated.

THE BEST location for the new office would have been in Del Monte Shopping Center, but "unfortunately, like so many

RARE PLANTS
The grounds around Pacific Grove's Point Pinos Lighthouse harbor certain plants found nowhere else.

LUMBER CAME FROM AUSTRALIA
Lumber for the Gordon House, on Pierce St. along Monterey's Path of History, was milled in Australia, shipped to England and re-shipped around the Horn to Monterey. Built in 1849-50, it was one of the first frame houses in California. Its owner did not trust adobe as a building material, but did follow the simple lines of existing houses made of the clay bricks.

DEAR FRIENDS AND NEIGHBORS:

My heartfelt thanks to all of you for your help, encouragement and the confidence you've shown me. Believe me, I'm keenly aware that the primary function of all those elected is service to the electors.

Carmel is blessed not only with special charm but also with especially capable people. It is my hope that many more of you will be willing to become involved in community issues. Let's work together to solve common problems and to preserve the unique character and predominantly residential character of our village.

Gratefully,

Charlotte Townsend

Here's to you for all you do.

MINNIE MARSHALL AND JOHN PAUL

Marshall-Paul reveal engagement

Dr. and Mrs. Earnest R. Marshall of Carmel Valley have announced the engagement of their daughter, Minnie Marie Marshall, to John Francis Paul IV, son of Mr. and Mrs. John F. Paul of Santa Rosa.

Miss Marshall is a 1974 graduate of Carmel High School. She attended Sonoma State University and the University of Heidelberg, West Germany. She now attends Monterey Peninsula College and works at the United Nations Association gift shop in Carmel.

Mr. Paul is a 1972 graduate of Palo Alto High School. He majored in music at College of the Redwoods and now attends Santa Rosa College. He works as a musician and songwriter in Santa Rosa.

The wedding is planned for March 1983.

Steinmetz-Gong announce wedding plans

Mr. and Ms. Robert Steinmetz of Carmel have announced the engagement of their daughter, Laura Lee, to John Lowe Gong, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Young of Monterey.

Miss Steinmetz was graduated from Carmel High School in 1978. She attended the University of California, Riverside, and is now a student at University of California School of Pharmacy, San Francisco.

Her sister is Lee Ann Steinmetz of Davis.

Mr. Gong is a 1977 graduate of Monterey High School. He will be graduated from the University of California, Riverside, in June of this year.

No wedding date has been announced.

Pony baseball sign-ups and tryouts are scheduled

Sign-ups and try outs for PONY Baseball will be held Sunday, April 18 and Saturday, April 24 from 1 p.m. to 3 p.m. at the lower field of Carmel High School. Players must live within the Carmel Unified School District boundaries and be 13 or 14 years old. The season will begin May 15 after the Carmel High School Padres season is over. We play regular season until early July then go on to All Star play against neighboring cities. All boys and girls are welcomed.

Class for cancer patients, families

Becoming More: The Challenge of Cancer, a free six-week class for cancer patients and their families, will begin Monday, April 19 from 7-9 p.m. in the Main Conference Room, Community Hospital, Holman Highway, Carmel.

The course is designed to help people with cancer and their families deal with the fear and handle the emotional crises associated with the disease.

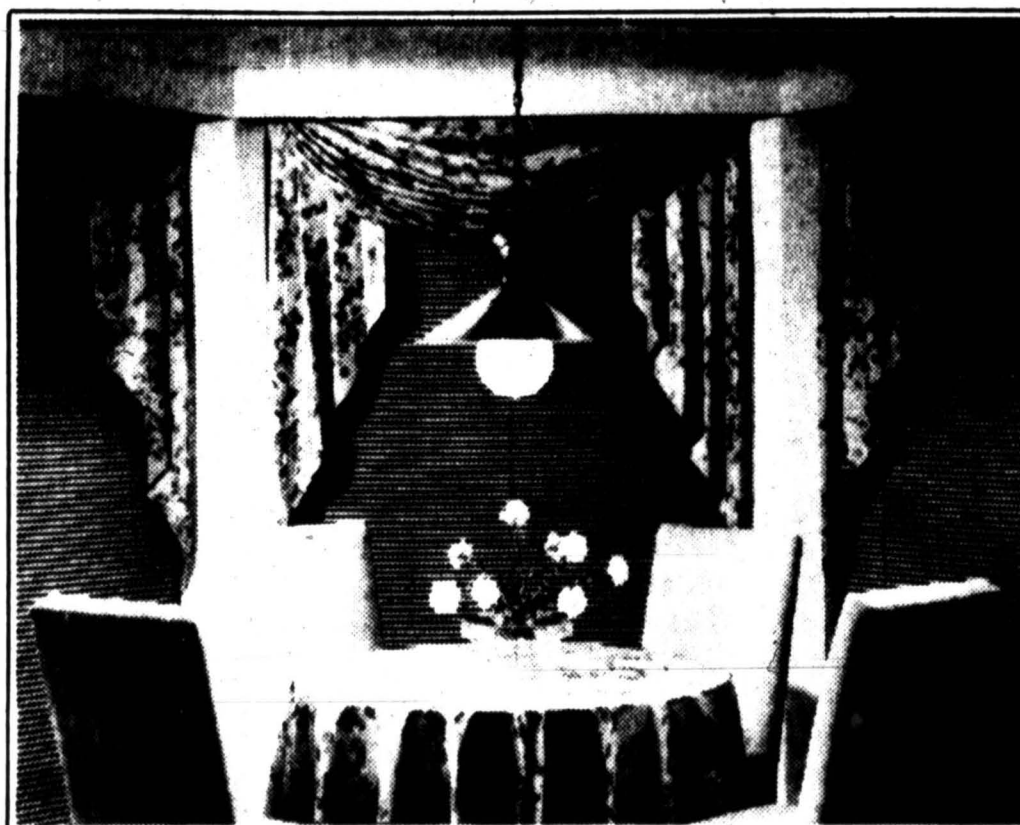

Topics to be discussed will include the medical aspects of cancer, treatment of side effects, nutrition, exercise and community resources.

Instructors will be Sandy Kahn, MS, MFCC, cancer and family counselor and stress and wellness consultant, and Joy Smith, RN, oncology nurse.

The American Cancer Society and Community Hospital co-sponsor the class.

Enrollment is limited and pre-registration is necessary. For more information, phone 372-4521.

Easter Bunny pays a visit

By TERRI LEE ROBBE

ANNUAL EASTER PARTY AT CARMEL CONVALESCENT ALLIANCE

A lifesize pink and fuzzy Easter bunny was the center of attention at the Annual Easter Gala held at the Carmel Convalescent Hospital last Saturday afternoon. The affair was given for the hospital residents by the Friendly Visitors of the Alliance on Aging Program.

About 35 people including some 25 wheelchair patients joined in the fun which included singing happy songs and a gala Easter Parade with many of the participants wearing costumes and frilly Easter bonnets.

THE FRIENDLY VISITORS of the Alliance on Aging gave an Easter party for residents of the Carmel Convalescent Hospital last Saturday. Thelma Stohr (the Easter Rabbit) chats with Alice Hansberry.

CONNIE ANDERSON plays the organ while Toni Jacobson sings along at the Easter party.

Mrs. Toni Jacobson who is head of the Friendly Visitors was there to welcome guests as was party chairman Mrs. Thelma Stohr. The secret is out that it was none other than Thelma who played the part of the Easter bunny. Thelma, a retired teacher, who now devotes time as a volunteer at the hospital made the bunny suit.

Friendly Visitors who joined in the fun included Lucille Hopkins, Connie Anderson, Ilda Moody, Ann Peterson, Rev. Albert Stanley, Lena Baker, Frances Polk, Eleanor Kruse, Nick and Novella Nicholson and Grace Arthur.

Refreshments included Easter candies, punch and a variety of cakes and cookies.

PREVIEW PARTY AND OPEN REHEARSAL OF "THE FANTASTICKS"

Georgia von Richter of Carmel and Kitty Ragsdale of Monterey will be co-chairwomen of a preview party and open rehearsal of "The Fantasticks" which will be presented by the Friends of Hidden Valley on Sunday, April 18 from 2 p.m. until 4 p.m. The event will be held in the Hidden Valley Theater in Carmel Valley.

There will be a no-host bar with complimentary hors d'oeuvres. Admission is by paid "Friends" membership — $10 singles, $15 per couple, available at the door.

Reservations can be made by calling 659-3115.

"The Fantasticks," an enchanting story of young love with beautiful songs, recently passed its 9000th performance on Broadway. It will open at Hidden Valley Theater on April 23.

Hidden Valley Music Seminars, a performing arts school, provides further training for talented young musicians and dancers in the areas of opera, musical theater and orchestral performance.

The "Friends" are a group of men and women who believe in this work and want to help in every way possible.

UNITED VOLUNTARY SERVICES PLANS MEMBERSHIP TEA

United Voluntary Services of the Monterey Peninsula will hold a membership tea at the Pebble Beach home of John Keller and Lewis Scott on May 6 from 3-5 p.m.

I'll have more information for you on this interesting group in the near future.

99-YEAR-OLD Henrietta Demarchi prepares to eat a cupcake at the Easter party.

SYMPHONY d'ELEGANCE FASHION ODYSSEY

With a hope that the heavy rains are a thing of the past and a feeling of spring in the air, it's not surprising that milady's thoughts are on fashions and exciting vacations. All the more reason why so many local ladies plan to attend the Twenty-first Annual Symphonie d'Elegance to benefit the Monterey County Symphony Guild.

Twenty-six models under the direction of Mrs. Donald Hubbard and Mrs. Edward Stark will show fashions from Saks Fifth Avenue. Just to give you some idea of what's really "in" this season, fashions will include casual wear which will emphasize the sailor, the prairie, and the punk looks.

There will also be knickers, lots of split skirts (coulots, shorts, etc.), coats, suits and dresses for daytime and lots of vivid colors as well as the elegant and always in style — black and white. For evening there will be pants and long skirts.

This year's "Fashion Odyssey" will be held at the Fort Ord Officers' Club on April 27. No-host cocktails at 11:30 a.m. will be followed by luncheon at 12:30 p.m. and the fashion show at 1:30 p.m.

I. MAGNIN TO SPONSOR ART EXHIBIT

A one-man show of current oil paintings by Lillian "Rusty" Churchill will be on exhibit at I. Magnin, Ocean Avenue, Carmel, from April 15 through May 15. The show is titled: Cats as Cats Can.

THE FRIENDLY VISITORS entertained with singing.

REV. ALBERT STANLEY, 88, and Lena Baker, 90, join in the festivities at the Easter party.

CASA VASQUEZ NEAR OLD JAIL

Casa Vasquez, at 546 Dutra St., Monterey, is now the address of the Monterey Park and Recreation Dept. Originally, though, it was the home of Dolores Vasquez, sister of the notorious bandit Tiburcio Vasquez, and by a quirk of fate, situated behind the old jail. Vasquez was familiar with both structures. He often hid out at his sister's house while the sheriff scoured the countryside for him.

CARMEL VALLEYITES OPEN RESTAURANT

Friday, April 2, was a special day for Kreg and Maren Baker of Carmel Valley. They were given a special party in honor of the opening of their restaurant The Pheasant's Eye. The party was given by Mr. and Mrs. Carmel Martin and many of the Bakers' friends were on hand to wish them well in their new venture. The restaurant opened to the public April 6.

Maren was educated in local schools. Her dad, Carmel Martin, is a Monterey attorney and her mom, Mrs. Mary Martin, lives in Palo Alto. Her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. John Marble, are longtime residents of Carmel Valley.

Kreg is a principal of special education in San Jose.

Both Kreg and Maren have had restaurant experience and have high hopes for The Pheasant's Eye which they describe as "small, intimate and very continental."

The restaurant is located at 159 Central Ave. in Pacific Grove and should you decide to drop by, Kreg and Maren have promised to be there to greet you.

PATTY LORD PLACES SEVENTH IN ONE-METER DIVING

Seventeen-year-old Patty Lord of Carmel Valley is "in the swim" these days. Patty, who was graduated from Robert Louis Stevenson in 1981, attends Tufts University in Medford, Mass., and was an individual scorer with the Tufts University women's swimming team which placed sixth in the recent NCAA Division III Meet at UMass-Boston. Patty placed seventh in one-meter diving.

Patty, who was on the diving team at RLS, is the daughter of Janet Lord of Carmel Valley and Dr. John D. Lord of Monterey. She has three sisters and one brother. Her sister, Pam, and brother, Paul, live with their mother in Carmel Valley.

LONGTIME CARMEL RESIDENT CELEBRATES 90TH BIRTHDAY

Special congratulations to Mrs. Charles "Edith" Fonteneau who celebrated her 90th birthday on March. 18. The event was celebrated in style as Edith's family and friends surprised her with a special birthday party at her Carmel home.

Edith, a Carmel resident since 1907, was delighted with the colorful decorations which included 90 bouquets of flowers and 90 balloons provided by her grandchildren and great-grandchildren.

Edith received birthday greetings from President and Mrs. Reagan and Congressman Leon Panetta. One special greeting was delivered in person as "Cupid" shot one of his satin arrows at Edith who enjoyed his visit immensely.

Guests included Edith's daughter Betty Asher and her husband, Bill, and their son, William from Watsonville. The Asher's daughters and their families also attended. They are: Mrs. Paul Montano, Jr., and family of Fort Ord; Mrs. John H. Owens and family of Prunedale and Mrs. Bob E. Shephard of Indiana who made her grandmother a beautiful birthday cake decorated with 90 flowers.

Edith's longtime friends attending the celebration included Hannah Hannum, Loni G. Blascoe and Ray Benson of Carmel and Clarence E. Lamb, Jr., of Seaside.

Belated Happy Birthday Wishes, Edith!

NAVY SEAMAN RECRUIT TROY A. BRATTY

Navy Seaman Recruit Troy A. Bratty has completed recruit training at the Naval Training Center in San Diego. Troy — a 1981 graduate of Pacific Grove High School — is the son of Robert T. and Drusilla E. Bratty of Pebble Beach.

During the eight-week training cycle, trainees studied general military subjects designed to prepare them for further academic and on-the-job training in one of the Navy's 85 basic occupational fields.

Included in their studies were seamanship, close order drill, naval history and first aid.

FREE WORKSHOP OFFERED ON BACK PROBLEMS

Oh, my aching back! If that's one of your problems you'll be happy to know that Community Hospital is offering a free public workshop on back problems. The workshop will be held in the main conference room on Saturday, April 17 from 9 a.m. to noon and will cover common back problems including arthritis, osteoporosis, sciatica and disc disease.

Participants will learn about basic anatomy as it relates to the back, and get information about physical therapy, exercises, and chemical and surgical treatment of back problems.

Dr. Ronald Chaplan, an orthopedic specialist, will moderate a physician panel of Drs. Frank Smith, neurosurgery; Jack Stein, orthopedics; William Lewis, neurosurgery; and Richard Dauphine, orthopedics. Also taking part will be Sue DeRoy, of the Salinas Back School, explaining the YMCA Back Program.

For further information, call the hospital's public information office at 624-4505.

EASTER SUNDAY was a special and very beautiful day at the Jacks Peak home of Bert and Bella Cutino, who along with Ted and Velma Balesteri are owners of various restaurants including the renowned Sardine Factory.

More than 100 friends joined the Cutino's to celebrate three separate events — the blessing of their home (which they built and moved into about a year ago), by Monsignor Brendan McGuiness — the first Holy Communion for their eight-year-old son Bart Cutino — and a 45th wedding anniversary celebration for Bella's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Mangiapane of Monterey.

Forty-five guests enjoyed a sit-down dinner and cocktails; gourmet hors d'oeuvres were offered to the late arrivals.

Bert and Bella and the Mangiapanes other children — son Peter Mangiapane and his wife Jo, and daughter Angela and her husband Terry Wecker — surprised the anniversary couple with a delightful gift: a trip to Las Vegas.

Live music was provided by Sal Mercurio.

The Cutinos will go to Washington, D.C. during the latter part of April for the International Wine and Food Exhibition. Ted and Velma will also make the trip and the foursome will represent the Sardine Factory. Traveling with them will be David and Chrissy Armanaco who will represent Durney Vineyards.

CARMEL HIGH SCHOOL

Padre sports schedule

Weather hampers athletes

By KAREN EDMONDS

The Carmel High School athletes are somewhat disturbed by the abundance of rain. All of the spring sports this year are outdoor sports, and are affected by every day of rain. Nevertheless, the Padres continue to try hard, especially the frosh-soph teams, which are the teams formed of freshmen and sophomores.

The Padre frosh-soph baseball team is undefeated in league play with a record of 2-0. Pat Verey, who coached the freshmen basketball team, is coaching the boys this baseball season. When asked about the potential of the team, Ernie Weilenmann, a sophomore, stated: "The pitching needs work, but we're hitting well and so we're scoring. We just need more work to improve our fundamentals."

The varsity baseball team is also 2-0 in league play after beating Gonzales 4-3 on March 24. The Padres have some outstanding hitters this season — Steve Girando, Nelson Holman, Ward Crane, and John Franklin are just a few of the batters who consistently hit well.

The girls' frosh-soph softball team is off and running in the Mission Trail Athletic League with a 3-0 record. The girls squashed Seaside 25-3, and crumbled RLS 28-2. The girls have tremendous potential, and are bound to continue winning this season, and in the years to come. Jennifer Hansen, a freshman shortstop, commented: "We have a lot of fun, but we've only played a few games. It's kind of strange because we've had about five games cancelled because of the rain."

The varsity softball team has a 2-1 record in league.

There is no frosh-soph golf team from lack of players. The varsity's first league match against Hollister at Pebble Beach got rained out, and the match against Monterey was forfeited by Monterey. Brett Langley, a junior on the team, feels the rain has really slowed up their game. "We can't hit the ball as hard and it's hard to hit it up. It's really soggy," he said.

Although the girls don't have a frosh-soph track team, the boys' frosh-soph team is doing great. The track teams have only had one dual meet, which was against Gonzales. The girls' varsity team won 47-42, and the frosh-soph team won 66-39, but the boys' varsity team lost 87-43. All three teams are short of people, but long on talent. The rain has really affected their training program; they have been forced to run long distances because the track is like quicksand. Be sure to look for many records to be broken as league continues.

The Carmel Boys' swimming team doesn't have a frosh-soph team this year, it has a junior varsity team. The main difference between the two is that a junior in high school can not play on a frosh-soph team, but can play on a junior varsity team. The swim team is not in the Mission Trail Athletic League, like the other sports teams of Carmel High. It is in the Southern Section Supplemental Swimming League, which is a combination of the MTAL and the MBL. The J.V. team is 4-0, after crushing Soquel, PG, North Salinas, and Seaside. Coach Agan praised Mike Falge, John Vanzander, Bob Agan, and Noah Greenberge for their speed and effort. He also commented: "It looks like RLS is the only other team in the league with enough swimmers to give us some real competition."

The varsity swim team is undefeated and tied with Salinas 4-0. They had a meet scheduled against Salinas April 1 which was cancelled because of rain.

The Padre tennis players have no frosh-soph team. The tennis team has been having many problems with the rain. It is virtually impossible to practice or play on wet courts. Their record is now 2-1.

All the teams this season are being set back by the rain. Many games, matches, and meets have been cancelled and rescheduled for later dates. The fields and facilities are soggy and unusable, but still the Padre spirit prevails, and the teams strive for success.

TWO JUNIORS at Carmel High School have been selected to attend the Rotary Youth Leadership Camps this summer. Sean Mullen will attend Camp Royal-Boys at Lake Sequoia June 13-18. Holly Tanous will attend the pilot program of Camp Royal-Girls at Lake Sequoia June 16-July 1. Mullen and Miss Tanous were selected on the basis of leadership, personal values, intelligence and promise of future success. Miss Tanous is vice-president of the junior class and is active in chorus, drama and the French club. Mullen is president of the junior class and is active in school sports. Representatives of 85 schools will attend the camps.

CVHS SPEAKS OUT

George Cree, a student at Carmel Valley High School, has written his impressions of our new computer program, based on his involvement with the program and an interview with Bruce Stannard, the program director:

About two weeks ago, Carmel Valley High School finally purchased a long awaited and hoped for computer. After weeks of trying to acquire funds, we were granted moneys by F.O.C.U.S. and the Bing Crosby Youth Fund. You may ask, "Why does CVHS want a computer?" The answer is that we are living in a real computer age, an age in which everything is becoming computerized. In Bruce Stannard's words, "We have to give students an idea of how a computer operates, because in the adult world, the real world, computers are there all the time."

At CVHS our computer program consists of a computer literacy class, which gives students a rough history of the computer, the components which make up computers, a basic explanation of how it works and the electronics behind it.

The students then learn the functions of the computer's various keys, some basic commands to which the computer reacts, and how to operate the disc and the printer. After becoming fluent with these skills, the students can begin to write their own programs. Another thing which makes the computer useful, if not invaluable, is software (pre-programmed discs) which can aid students with reading, writing, and mathematics skills. CVHS will begin to accumulate software to include in our computer program.

Everyone involved with our computer seems to be really excited and enthusiastic about it. The computer is being used throughout the entire school day, and we're all having a lot of fun with it as well as being intellectually challenged.

SPRING ELECTION

On March 17 an election for spring semester officers of the C.S.F. was held.

Sean Mullen, a junior, was elected president. Mark Defley was named vice president. Jeanette Crosby was selected as the club secretary treasurer.

The Annual Awards Dessert will be held on May 5 from 6:30 p.m. to 8 p.m. All C.S.F. members, from the fall and spring terms, and their families are invited.

At the dessert, the nine students who qualified for the lifetime memberships will be awarded their special pins.

COLLEGE TESTING

On Saturday, April 24, any senior who is planning to attend a California State university is encouraged to take the English Equivalency Examination (EEE). The closest test site for CHS students is San Jose State University.

The EEE takes three hours and has two parts. Part one is a 90 minute objective test. Part two consists of two 45-minute essays.

If both parts of the test are passed credit will be given equal to two terms of English. The University of California campuses also award credit to those who pass this test.

The fee for taking the EEE is $37. Registration is due at the test center by April 2.

AFS STUDENT LEAVES

Carmel high School's American Field Service, a cultural exchange program, has sent Allen Siegrist to Japan on the Southern Hemisphere program.

Siegrist left in early March and will return to Carmel in February or March of next year.

David Keith, Amery Burleigh and Jim Tarentino will be leaving in July for the Northern program trip.

After a year in Honduras, Tracy Trotter arrived back at CHS in February.

Nancy Cahalan

STUDENTS STAR

Carmel High School students have important roles in "Gypsy," which plays weekends at the Wharf Theatre in Monterey.

Alice Welsh has the lead role of Gypsy Rose Lee.

Eric Allen plays Yonkers and Pastie. This is the first time Allen has been in a musical where he must sing, act and dance.

Mike Romero is double cast as Georgia and Tulsa. The latter role is Romero's main character. He plays a young boy who becomes a dancer.

The play centers on the life of America's most famous stripper — Gypsy Rose Lee.

Gina Welsh directs the play. Akemi Ito did the choreography while Barney Hulse handled the music.

Open house at Carmel High

Carmel High School's open house will be held on Thursday, April 22, from 7:30 p.m. until 9 p.m.

Open house is part of Public Schools Week. Parents and friends of Carmel High School are cordially invited to visit classrooms and demonstrations at the school. Entertainment will be provided by the Padre Band, and refreshments will be served in the library by the Padre Parents.

"SPRING FLOWER" is what Carmel High School senior Krista Moses calls this photo she recently took which seems to capture the spirit of the season.

CHRONIC PAIN

If you are the unfortunate victim of chronic pain, or one of those told you will just have to learn to live with aches and pains...

Clinical studies indicate that nothing could be further from the truth. Most victims of pain could be helped if they were less willing to accept pain on a permanent basis. Dramatic results are now achieved without the use of conventional drugs or surgery.

Petpourri

Animals can provide an answer to loneliness

By JUDITH A. EISNER

IF YOU LEFT IT up to me," someone said to us recently, "I'd do away with all animals that aren't strictly working." This sweeping pet de-population would exempt herding cattle and sheepdogs, police and guard dogs, guides for the blind, working field dogs and other "employed" canines. The only cats to be spared would be "working ratters" and perhaps a mouser or two.

Such anti-pet sentiments are not uncommon among those who believe that people should devote all their time and energies (and love) to other people and not "waste" them on mere animals. Not far from this group of non-pet owners are those who decry the terrible waste of good food we're pouring into our pets (dog and cat food, that is) while millions are starving all over the world.

Our rejoinder to the latter accusation has always been that if someone or some people really needs the by-products and grains that constitute most of our pets' diets, we'll gladly donate them. A more realistic and dispassionate person would realize that most of what goes into pet foods is unfit for human consumption. In fact, some time ago there was a campaign in major cities of this country to warn ghetto-dwellers that canned dog food was neither intended nor fit for human beings.

(For the record, we are adamantly opposed to pet foods that use products of any endangered species. The slaughter of whales, wild horses and burros by the pet food industry has been a national disgrace that has led to the formation of strong, vocal protection groups. Check labels if you care!)

In rebuttal to the charge of "wasting" time, energy, love and money on pets, we can turn to the psychologists who more and more applaud the role of the domestic animal in healthy daily intercourse.

One of the things that makes pet owning such a basic part of our lives, they say, is that animals help us retain contact with nature. In many instances, our lifestyles have surrounded us with technological advances and isolated us from the more natural parts of our environment. The city dweller, surrounded by glass, concrete and steel, living in high-rise apartments, fighting crowds and dependent on public transportation, needs relief from the artificial world around him.

No matter how "domestic" our pets may be, they are still far more natural than most things that fill our harried lives. A dog is a dog, in spite of a fancy haircut and a ribbon in it. His instincts, though they may be diluted by generations of domesticity, are still very basically canine. When he passes a fire hydrant, he lifts his leg, so to speak.

Cats, especially, are less "domesticated" and more "natural" than dogs because of that independent streak in their nature. Cat owners delight in their pets' grace, balance, poise, acrobatic ability and even, if they'll admit it, in the fact that they catch an occasional unwary bird.

A PET CAN mean the difference between utter loneliness and friendship. It can, in many instances, save an aging person from senility by simply giving him a "new lease on life." The non-pet owner believes that "people should reach out to people," and we concur. But sometimes "other people" are not there to share the early morning hours, the lonely mealtimes, the stillness of the night for the old and alone.

Sometimes "other people" cannot fulfill the unique needs of the handicapped child that can be served by a great, gentle, loving dog. "Other people" are often cruel, but dogs never are.

Dogs and cats understand (or we believe they do) the secret joys, sorrows, fears and aspirations of millions of people who have no one else to confide in. They bridge the generation gap; they offer friendship with no demands and constant love that has nothing to do with good behavior, good grades or good graces; they are joyfully ever-present, never too busy to lend an ear or lick a tear, never too tired for a romp, or too impatient for a quiet time together.

To do away with all the "non-working" pets that pay their way with love, loyalty, protection and companionship would be to bring a great blight of sorrow to a world that has more than it can handle.

WE JUST RECEIVED an announcement of "Be Kind to Animals Week," May 2-8. We believe that every week of the year should be no different. If your own pets are well cared for and safeguarded, why not extend your interest to other creatures less fortunate?

Being kindest, of course, is to prevent your female pets from contributing to pet overpopulation. A promiscuous pet is no less delinquent than a promiscuous human.

Being kind, in today's frenzied world, is making sure your pet does not roam free, endangering himself, motorists and children.

Being kind is keeping your dog from being a neighborhood pest, fouling or destroying others' property.

Being kind is being concerned for the well-being of your pets and learning how to keep them safe and healthy.

Being kind is being loving and gentle, concerned and firm, understanding and generous, playful and serious all in their proper places. Being kind is, most of all, another name for giving.

DOCK LOR'S Canton Restaurant on the south side of Ocean between San Carlos and Mission, may close and be replaced by an Italian delicatessen.

Commission will ponder new restaurant proposal

EGG ROLLS and won ton soup may soon make way for spaghetti and ravioli at a downtown Carmel restaurant site.

The planning commission will hold a public hearing April 21 on an application to open an Italian delicatessen called "Giorgio's," on the south side of Ocean between San Carlos and Mission.

The Canton Chinese restaurant now occupies the site, but the owner of the building, Dick Bruhn, said Dock Lor has indicated he will retire.

In the application, co-owners Maureen Duffy, Tricia Aliotti and George Brook-Kothlow said they would like to serve pizza, sandwiches, ice cream and desserts. There would also be a cappuccino juice bar.

The applicants want to remodel the interior to include two separate eating areas — a 34-section near the entrance and 16 seats in the back of the restaurant.

Building Inspector Ron Warren said he does not think the application would fall under the general plan moratorium. The moratorium prohibits new restaurants or the expansion of food service establishments unless they would be "reasonably expected" to be allowed by the general plan, which is under revision.

Duffy and Aliotti also operate Pasta Mia restaurant in Pacific Grove. Brook-Kothlow is an architect in Carmel.

Bruhn said Lor has indicated he will retire and plans are being made to lease the site immediately so that it will not remain vacant long.

"He is thinking about retiring and if he does, this is somebody who wants to move in," said Bruhn.

In another hearing, the commission is expected to review a land use committee report on an ordinance that would ban earth satellite receiving stations larger than 10 feet in diameter.

The commission heard the proposed ordinance in March, but sent it back to the committee for more detailed provisions.

However, the commission is expected to return the ordinance to the committee for even more specifics, said commission secretary Mary Jahr-Purvis.

The commission wants to ban large earth satellite receiving stations because of their potential visual impact on the city.

The devices can receive 94 television stations from 12 satellites that orbit the earth.

Father Farrell's wisdom

Rotary, Carmel-by-the-Sea
March 31, 1982

Oliver Wendell Holmes, Sr., the 19th century physician and humorist of Cambridge, Mass., wrote in his book The Poet at the Breakfast Table, "It is the province to knowledge to speak, it is the privilege of wisdom to listen."

I often wonder how many married couples have the wisdom to listen to each other? Counting the ones I know who do, I have not run out of fingers on my right hand. I know couples who have been carrying on disparate conversations and one-way dialogues for 25 years. I meet the perpetual interrupters and they imply that what their partner says is of no importance. I know the spouse who is ready to do battle against any statement; one sentence and it becomes a "who will win situation." No one wins and there is never a sign of disarmament either bilateral or unilateral.

Sarcasm, condemnation, quick judgments, perpetual confrontations can wreck the peace of a marriage as quickly as turning off the hearing aid can put it in a deep freeze.

Listening to a spouse is an obvious priority or is it obvious to anyone else but to me?

So endeth Farrell's advice to the lovelorn, the married ones, that is.

Oh Lord, be pleased to give married couples the wisdom to shut up and to listen to each other at least once a year. Amen.

Deaths

Ernesteen M. Ryan

Ernesteen M. Ryan, Carmel, died April 8 at Eskaton Monterey Hospital after a brief illness. She was 75.

Mrs. Ryan was born at Perkins, Okla., on May 5, 1906. She worked for about 15 years as an attendant at Norwalk State Hospital and before moving to Carmel seven years ago had made her home in Honolulu.

Survivors are her daughters, Jackie Daegling of Honolulu and Sandy Michalek of Medford, Ore.; son, Bob Ryan of Eagle Point, Ore.; sisters, Chelila Daegling of Carmel and Pansy Kraus of San Diego, and five grandchildren.

The Paul Mortuary was in charge of arrangements.

Jay Barnette Douglass

Supervisors send library battle back to the negotiating table

By MICHAEL GARDNER

THE CITY-COUNTY library budget battle showdown before the board of supervisors Tuesday (April 13) ended in a stalemate and both parties will return to the negotiating table.

Supervisors refused to embrace a consultant's proposal to cut county reimbursements to municipal libraries that provide services to non-city residents, but rejected demands by city officials that the current level of funding continue.

Instead, supervisors said both sides should go back to the bargaining table and negotiate a new funding proposal, which could also include a joint powers agreement plan.

The idea of a joint agreement for city libraries to administer services by neighboring county branches came from Fifth District Supervisor William Peters of Carmel Valley.

Peters said he favors a joint powers agency for libraries on the Monterey Peninsula, similar to the cooperative agency that oversees Monterey-Salinas Transit.

He said library taxes from the unincorporated areas of the peninsula generate approximately $350,000 and that the county reimbursements total $371,000.

"We have the resources available to form a regional library system," he said.

He said a regional system would save money and insure free use of the libraries for all residents of Monterey County.

Peters added that a JPA agreement is not the only way a regional plan could be operated.

"There are probably a number of alternatives with less unification, but that requires more cooperation from the libraries than what already exists," he said.

Peters voted no in the final 3-1 decision because he opposed some of the provisions in other recommendations that were discussed after the consultant's funding formula was rejected. Supervisor Michal Moore left the meeting before the final vote.

The consultant, who made his report public nearly six months ago, proposed that the county cut reimbursements to city libraries because not enough money was spent on service to rural patrons.

The report has been criticized by officials, who claim that municipal libraries service most of the county residents and should be reimbursed fully.

Harrison Memorial Library Director Peg Richter said Carmel would lose nearly $130,000 in county funds if the proposal is adopted.

Ms. Richter was not enthusiastic about the supervisors' actions.

"I think we're back to where we were before, if you want my honest opinion," she said.

However, she indicated she would be willing to return to the bargaining table.

"No city librarians, myself included, want to discontinue service to any individual. I welcome the opportunity for further negotiations," said Ms. Richter.

Whatever the outcome of future negotiations, city officials say the issue must be decided by June 30 — the date the county contract expires for city library service.

The Carmel City Council has adopted resolutions that would impose service fees to non-city resident patrons if the county fails to reimburse the cities.

Ms. Richter indicated that the fee would range from $25 to $50 yearly, which must be approved by both the library board of directors and city council.

The fee would entitle non-city resident patrons to use all of the municipal libraries, she added.

There were other library questions before the supervisors Tuesday and one action will have a direct impact on Carmel.

Supervisors decided that there are just not enough county funds to adopt a 10-year capital improvement program proposed by the consultant.

As part of the improvements program, the consultant has recommended that the county consider opening a library branch at the mouth of Carmel Valley.

County Administrator Richard Andrews said supervisors realize that the capital improvements program will have to be reconsidered when the financial picture brightens.

Supervisors also adopted a series of recommendations proposed by Andrews to improve county library services through more automation, expansion of the bookmobile, increasing staff time and staying open more hours.

Carmel River Watch will observe Earth Day and Arbor Day at CV Library April 16

Carmel River Watch, the citizen environmental organization, will present a special program to commemorate Earth Day and Arbor Day at 7:30 p.m., Friday, April 16 at the Carmel Valley Library.

"The River," a 1939 production of the U.S. government on the Mississippi River, will be shown and longtime residents will give their remembrances of the way the Carmel River once was.

The event is open to the public.

An explosion of color

CAMPESINOS on the west coast of Nayarit, Mexico become so skilled at using razor-sharp machetes as a work tool that on fiesta days they compete to see who can perform the most difficult movements with blades.

This dance with a machete is part of the choreographic repertoire of Ballet Folklórico Mexicano. The group will perform at 8 p.m. Sunday, April 18 in Sunset Theatre, Carmel.

Mexican ballet troupe will perform at Sunset

Ballet Folklórico Mexicano will bring an incredible explosion of color and beauty to Sunset Theater in a Carmel Festival of Dance presentation at 8 p.m. Sunday, April 18.

Ballet Folklórico Mexicano was founded eight years ago as a direct reaction to the alarming realization that the traditional dances of Mexico were fast disappearing. The impact of industry on the pueblos — the sources of a culture going back thousands of years — placed this natural treasure in danger of vanishing.

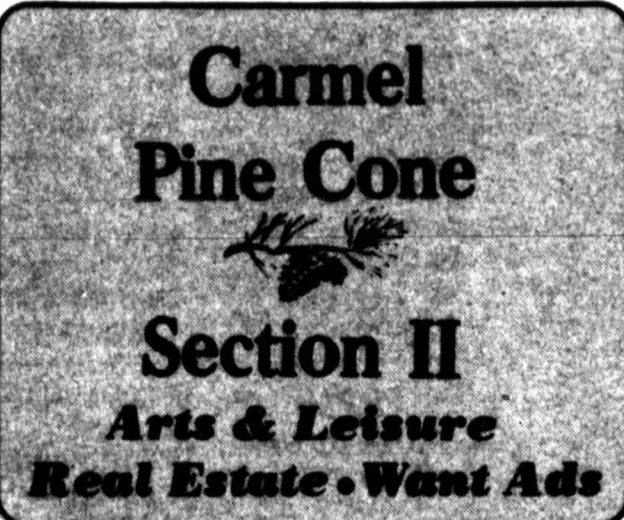

With monumental research, choreographic artistry, superbly designed costumes and a dedicated company of talented dancers, Mexicano was created to preserve and display the rich diversity of the Mexican culture and traditions that are stunningly expressed through the vitality of dance.

Mexicano's choreographic repertoire includes danzas, religious and sacred rituals, many dating to Aztec and pre-Columbian times; bailes, regional fiesta dances from Yucatan, Chiapas, Puebla, Oaxaca Nayarit, Jalisco, Guerrero, Chihuahua, Sonora, Norteno, Central Mexico, Jarocho, Huasteco; and 19th century dance, courtly dances from the period of the French intervention.

Tickets are $7.75 and $6.75. They are available at the Sunset Center Box Office, Carmel.

For more information, phone 624-3996.

'Fantasticks' preview party April 18

The Friends of Hidden Valley will present a preview party and open rehearsal of The Fantasticks from 2-4 p.m. Sunday, April 18 in the Hidden Valley Theater, Carmel Valley and Ford roads, Carmel Valley. There will be a no-host bar with complimentary hors d'oeuvres.

Kitty Ragsdale and Georgia Von Richter will co-chair the event, assisted by Charles Haas and other members of the Hidden Valley board of directors.

The Fantasticks, an enchanting story of young love featuring beautiful songs, recently marked its 9,000th performance on Broadway. It will open at Hidden Valley Theater on April 23.

Hidden Valley Music Seminars, a performing arts school, provides further training for talented young musicians and dancers in opera, musical theater and orchestral performance.

Friends of Hidden Valley is a group of men and women who believe in this work and want to help.

Admission to the preview party is by a Friends membership — $10 for singles and $15 for couples. They are available at the door.

For reservations and further information, phone 659-3115.

'Music From Marlboro' will present concert

Music from Marlboro, a string sextet, will perform at 8 p.m. Saturday, April 17 in Sunset Theater, Carmel. This will be the final concert of the 1981-1982 season of the Chamber Music Society of the Monterey Peninsula.

The selection of music to be performed will include the String Quintet in D major, K. 593 (1970) by Mozart; the Trio in G minor, Opus 6, No. 5, G. 93 for two violins and cello (1769) by Boccherini; and the Sextet in B flat major, Opus 18 (1858-60) by Brahms.

Music from Marlboro is presented by the Marlboro Music Festival with Rudolf Serkin, artistic director. The festival sends several groups to concertize around the country. The sextet is well-known for its development of young artists. Many of the young musicians sent on tour go on to outstanding careers as concert artists.

Pina Carmirelli, violinist, has a distinguished international career, appearing as soloist with the New York and Berlin Philharmonics. She was founder and first violinist of the Boccherini Quintet. Currently, she is on the faculty of the Accademia di Santa Cecilia in Rome.

Violinist Naoko Tanaka studied at the Juilliard School with Felix Galimar and Dorothy Delay. A winner of many prizes, Tanaka made her New York recital debut as winner of the Artists International Competition. For the past two summers, she has been concertmistress of the Carmoor Festival.

Philipp Nargele, violist, is Kenana Professor of Music at Smith College. He was a member of the Vegh String Quartet for three years and has made numerous solo and chamber music recordings.

Violist Matthias Buchholz studied with Karen Tuttle and Michael Tree at the Curtis Institute of Music. He received top honors in the National Music Competition as a member of the Brahms Quartet. Buchholz has appeared in chamber music festivals throughout Europe.

Celloist Colin Carr made his New York debut as the 1979 winner of the Young Concert Artists International Auditions.

He has performed with the Amsterdam Philharmonic, the Royal Philharmonic and with Yehudi Menuhin and the Liverpool Philharmonic. Carr has performed at Spoleto Festivals in South Carolina and Italy.

Robie Brown Dan received degrees in music from the Juilliard School and was a member of the resident string quartet at CCNY. She has recorded for Nonesuch Records.

Past performances by Music from Marlboro on the Monterey Peninsula have been notable for skill in performance and variety of program.

Tickets are $6 general and $2.50 for students and enlisted personnel. They are available at the door the night of the performance.

For more information, phone 624-2993.

Three major exhibits open in Carmel

Three major art exhibits open in Carmel this week.

The works of Edward Szmyd, a major new figure among American painters, will be honored with a one-man show at Miner's Gallery Americana.

A one-man show of paintings by internationally known Italian artist, Lucio Sollazzi, opens Saturday, April 17 at Zantman Art Galleries, Sixth and Mission, Carmel. The artist will be guest at a reception from 5-8 p.m. Saturday, April 17 at the gallery.

Four Color Photographers, an exhibit of contemporary color photography by William Christenberry, Avery Danziger, Emmet Gowin and Terry Husebye, also opens with a preview/reception Friday, April 16 from 8-10 p.m. at Friends of Photography, Sunset Center, Carmel.

For complete stories and additional photographs, see pages 10 and 11.

THE LOVE OF AUTHENTIC, simple things such as the charming old street featured in Walking in May, is inherent in the works of Italian artist Lucio Sollazzi. An exhibition of paintings by the internationally known artist opens Saturday, April 17 at Zantman Art Galleries, Sixth and Mission, Carmel.

DISTINGUISHED VIOLINIST Pina Carmirelli will perform with Music from Marlboro, a string sextet of musicians from the Marlboro Musical Festival, at 8 p.m. Saturday, April 17. Carmirelli has appeared as a soloist with the New York and Berlin Philharmonic Orchestras. She was the founder and first violinist of the Boccherini Quartet. Presented by the Chamber Music Society of the Monterey Peninsula, the concert will be performed in Sunset Theater, Carmel.

Film review:

Neil Simon on the skids

By LISA JENSEN

I Ought To Be in Pictures. With Walter Matthau, Dinah Manoff and Ann-Margret. Written by Neil Simon. Directed by Herbert Ross. A 20th Century-Fox release.

It's time concerned moviegoers chipped in to send Neil Simon on a nice long vacation. The strain of churning out one film script a year, most of them based on his own stage plays, has turned his recent efforts into assembly line products too calculated to pass even as light entertainment.

The current case, I Ought To Be in Pictures, has all the familiar ingredients, but they're as slick and joyless as if they'd been fed through a computer. The minimal plot has no peaks or valleys, just a straight line on which to stage the confrontations. The usual "eccentric" characters are as flat and predictable as TV commercial clones and Simon's patented snappy patter is lifeless.

The story concerns Libby (Dinah Manoff), a Brooklyn teenager and would-be actress who hides her aching vulnerability behind a steady stream of street-smart wisecracks. Libby takes a bus to California to break into the movies and drop in on her estranged father, Herb (Matthau), a Hollywood writer, whom she hasn't seen in 16 years.

But their reunion is less than idyllic. Far from the glamorous celebrity Libby was expecting, Herb's a grubby curmudgeon who would rather play the horses and go to the ball games than peddle his scripts to the studios.

Of course, Herb is wholly unprepared for the demands of dispensing parental wisdom and guidance to his long-lost daughter. But Libby's emotional honesty and Pollyanna optimism finally force him to come to terms with his own life and values.

This uninspired storyline doesn't play any better than it reads. The humor that should be its saving grace never rises above tired New York-vs.-California jokes and would-be whimsical gags like Herb's inability to remember names and Libby's habit of talking aloud to her dead grandmother. And the sentimentality that always lurks just below the surface of any Simon comedy bubbles way out of control here, often threatening to engulf whole scenes.

Herb's chronic Fear of Commitment, for instance, is the simplistic notion offered as the key to all his troubles, and his confrontations with his loyal, level-headed girlfriend (Ann-Margret) contain the most cloying, contrived dialog in the movie. And the business about two fruit trees he's raised as a Freudian replacement for the children he never knew employs the kind of heavy-handed symbolism that supposedly went out with D.W. Griffith.

The talented players do their best, although neither Libby nor Herb comes off as adorable as Simon intends. Still, it's fun to watch Matthau at work, even if the lines he delivers with such wry, deadpan comic panache are so far below par. Matthau clearly ought to be in pictures, but it may be time for Simon to look into some other line of work.

Kiddie films at Monterey Library

Four children's films will be shown from 4-5 p.m. Friday, April 16 at the Monterey Public Library, 625 Pacific, Monterey.

In The Beast of Monsieur Racine, the strange beast is presented to the Academy of Sciences. The second film, The Mole and the Rocket, features a rocket carrying a mole to a desert island.

The Babysitter tells the story of a chicken who becomes a babysitter, and Zlateh the Goat is the story of Aaron's trip to the butcher.

The films are free. For more information, phone 646-3930.

What's playing at the movies

Cannery Row: Filmed on the Monterey Peninsula, this film recreates the boisterous Monterey waterfront of the 1940s, a haven for derelicts, dreamers and nonconformists who triumph over harsh realities with their compassion and good humor intact. A touching love affair between Doc (Nick Nolte), an enigmatic and eccentric marine biologist and Suzy (Debra Winger), a pretty young drifter determined to survive, begins. Audra Lindley stars as the shrewd, earthy madame. Narrated by John Huston. Rated R. At the Center Cinemas.

Cat People: Remake of the 1942 Jacques Tourneur cult film. Starring Nastassia Kinski, Malcolm McDowell and John Heard in a surreal erotic fantasy set in New Orleans. Rated R. At the State Three Cinemas.

Charlots of Fire: A wealthy Jewish boy becomes a star runner and a Scots missionary sprints for the glory of God. The two men, driven in different ways, lead England to gold medals and glory in the 1924 Olympics in Paris. Beautifully blended color photography. Starring Ben Cross, Ian Charleson, and Alice Krige. Rated PG. At the Golden Bough.

Death Trap: An Edgar Wallace mystery filmed in England in 1960. A girl, played by Barbara Shelly, learns her deceased sister drew some money from the bank before her death, but it seems to have disappeared. Albert Lieven also stars. Rated PG. At the State Three Cinemas.

Heavy Metal: An animated film goes one step beyond science fiction into a universe of magic, passionate fantasies, awesome good, and terrifying evil — into worlds that have the logic of a dream, and a nightmare. Inspired by the fantastic stories and unique graphics of the magazine of the same title. Rated R. At the Dream Theater.

I Ought To Be in Pictures: Film adopted from the Broadway play by Neil Simon, and directed by Herbert Ross. A well-constructed tearjerker and heartwarming comedy set in West Hollywood about the reunion of a father and daughter after 16 years. Diana Manoff plays the daughter, Walter Matthau, the father, and Ann Margret his girl friend. Rated PG. At the Center Cinemas.

Making Love: A doctor (Michael Ontkean) loves his wife (Kate Jackson) but finds himself attracted to another man (Harry Hamlin). Rated R. At the Dream Theater.

On Golden Pond: Katharine Hepburn and Henry Fonda offer a story of a couple still passionately in love after 48 years. Jane Fonda plays their daughter. Rated PG. At the Carmel Village Theatre.

Personal Best: Mariel Hemingway and Patrice Donnelly play the roles of women competing for the U.S. Olympics track and field team. Their performances have a deep feeling of honesty. The track and field events are captured with amazing sensuousness. Rated R. At the Valley Cinema.

Porky's: A ribald comedy of adolescence in the '50's directed by Bob Clark. The title is derived from the name of a notorious redneck dive to which six teenagers are hypnotically drawn in the belief that they can purchase carnal experience on its premises. A youthful comedy which is a showcase for the six talented actors. Rated R. At the State Three Cinemas.

Quest For Fire: If you loved Chewbacca, you'll go ape over Naoh, Gau and Ika in this film. A story about early man and our beginning. Many strange beasts of prehistoric times such as vicious saber-toothed tigers and Indian elephants. There are some scenes to make you laugh, whether intentional or not. Rated PG. At the Cinema 70.

Resurrection: A tale of a contemporary woman with the miraculous power to heal the sick. Ellen Burstyn gives a warm, funny and intelligent performance as the flesh-and-blood woman who refuses to become a martyred messiah and playwright-turned-actor Sam Shepard is the sexy, reckless young stud who becomes her lover. At the Dream Theater.

Richard Pryor Live on the Sunset Strip: Pryor is the writer and star of this film, which was shot live at the Hollywood Palladium on two consecutive evenings. With a mixture of wit and warmth, he takes his audience through hilarious accounts of his life, and finally, "Pryor on fire," a re-telling of what led to the accident which nearly cost him his life. Rated R. At the Regency.

Rocky Horror Picture Show: A movie about two teenagers and a transvestite from another planet. Fri. and Sat. midnight show. At the Dream Theater.

Silent Rage: A Chuck Norris film. Rated R. At the State Three Cinemas.

Some Kind of Hero: Richard Pryor stars in a serious dramatic role as a hard-pressed Vietnam veteran-turned thief. Margot Kidder plays the heart-of-gold prostitute. Rated R. At the Hill Theatre.

Str Crazy: Gene Wilder and Richard Pryor star as two unsuccessful New Yorkers who head west in search of fresh air, open spaces and sanity. Wilder, the playwright, and Pryor, the actor, wind up in jail and become involved in a wild, comic escape plot. At the Regency.

Victor Victoria: Romantic comedy set in the 1930's Paris. Julie Andrews stars as a down-on-her-luck singer and James Garner as a tough Chicago nightclub owner, with Robert Preston, Lesley Ann Warren and Alex Karras. Rated PG. At the Dream Theater.

Backgammon

Your best chance

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

You White, roll 3-1 in the diagrammed position. How do you play it?

Take a man off with the three. Then the only question is whether to move from your 4-point to your 3-point or from your 2-point to your 1-point. To put it another way, at your next roll (if you get one) would you rather have men on your 3-point and 2-point or on your 4-point and 1-point?

Take the one by moving from your 2-point to your 1-point.

If at your next roll you are on the 3-point and 2-point, you will miss with 6-1, 1-6, 5-1, 1-5, 4-1, 1-4, 3-1, 1-3, 2-1, 1-2 and 1-1. You miss with all 11 rolls that include a one.

If at your next roll you are on the 4-point and 1-point, you come off with all sixes, fives and fours, and also 3-3 and 2-2, a total of 29 out of the 36 possible rolls. You miss only on seven rolls: 3-2, 2-3, 3-1, 1-3, 2-1, 1-2, and 1-1.

Obviously you will be better off if you miss only on seven out of the 36 possible rolls than if you miss on 11 out of 36. The difference of four rolls out of 36 is a little more than 11 per cent. Why give your opponent this extra percentage?

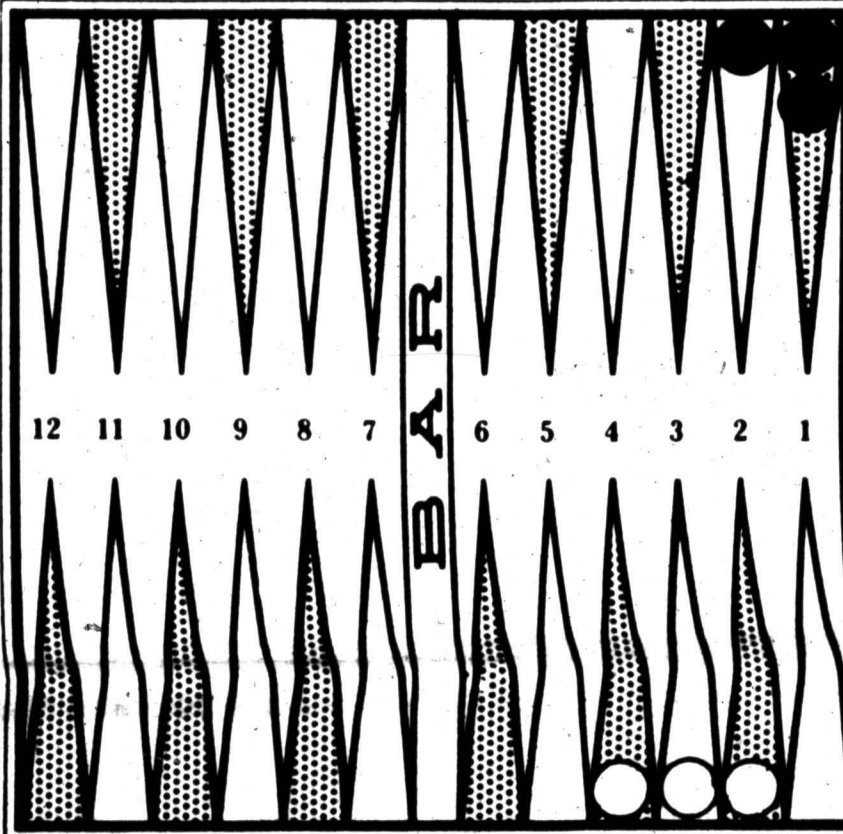

Would you like to have Alfred Sheinwold teach you how to play backgammon? A 12-lesson booklet will be on the way to you when you send $1 plus a stamped, self-addressed envelope to Backgammon, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1000, Los Angeles, Calif. 90053.

One-woman show opens

AN EXHIBIT of oil paintings by Carmel artist Lillian "Rusty" Churchill will open today at I. Magnin in Carmel Plaza. The "Cats as Cats Can" exhibit will continue through May 15 and can be viewed during normal store hours.

Screening of the film 'Resurrection' will benefit women's organizations

Resurrection, a film starring Ellen Burstyn, will begin a film series to benefit local women's organizations. The film will screen at 1 p.m. Sunday, April 18 at the Dream Theater, 301 Prescott, Monterey.

Initiated by NOW-Monterey, the first film will benefit the Equal Rights Amendment Ratification Fund. Succeeding films will benefit Demeter Productions, the YWCA Emergency Shelter for Battered Women and Their Children, the Reproduction Rights Coalition and the Alliance on Aging.

Participating organizations will create a network of women on the Monterey Peninsula to educate the community about women's issues in addition to fundraising.

A short film of the ERA Walkathon in Los Angeles will precede the feature. Riane Eisler, author of The Equal Rights Handbook, will give a brief ERA update.

Following the film Rev. Howard and Rosemary Matson will lead a discussion.

The theatre has been donated by Alan Weber and John Harris, owners of the Dream Theatre.

Tickets are $5. They are available in Carmel at Do Re Mi Records in The Barnyard, Highway 1 and Rio Rd., and in Carmel Plaza; in Pacific Grove at the Open Book Bookstore; and in Monterey at The Book Tree and the Dream Theatre.

For further information, phone 375-4345.

Shakespeare Festival auditions will be held at MPC April 17-18

Auditions for three productions of the Monterey Peninsula Shakespeare Festival are scheduled for 1 p.m. Saturday and Sunday, April 17 and 18 at the Monterey Peninsula College Theater. The productions will be staged this summer.

The two main stage productions will be a 1930s version of Taming of the Shrew and a production of Merchant of Venice set in the Italian Renaissance. Actors, actresses, musicians and dancers of all ages are needed for the two plays.

Boys and girls between the ages of 5-15 are needed for a special adaptation of A Midsummer Night's Dream. This play will be performed the first three weekends in August as part of the festival Village Faire. Auditions are scheduled Sunday, April 18 at 1 p.m. in the MPC Amphitheater.

No special preparation or materials are required for the auditions. Actors and actresses will be given a Shakespearean scene to study and read at the audition.

Taming of the Shrew will be directed by James Dunn, who has directed for the American Conservatory Theatre, Pacific Conservatory for the Performing Arts, and at the Mark Taper Forum in Los Angeles. He received critical acclaim in San Francisco for his production of Taming of Shrew set in California during the Mexican era.

Ed Emanuel, who directed MacBeth at MPC last summer, will direct Merchant of Venice. Emanuel is a recipient of the Welsh Medal for Theatre Excellence and has directed for the Disney Corporation and at Kennedy Center and Lincoln Center.

Steven Martin, who performed in Macbeth last summer, will direct the children's production of A Midsummer Night's Dream. Martin has directed at the Fresno State Experimental Theatre and acted in a wide variety of productions throughout the state.

Rehearsals for the main stage productions begin June 14 with two weeks of workshops on general acting techniques. The productions will play in repertory August 4 through September 5.

Scholarships for performers are available. They range from $50-$500 depending on casting.

For more information, phone 646-4209.

Versatile Scottish band will present concert

Silly Wizard, a versatile Scots band, will perform at 8 p.m. Wednesday, April 21 at The Oz, 724 Abrego, Monterey. The concert is sponsored by public radio station KAZU.

Silly Wizard blends a wealth of traditional Celtic music with original material written in a traditional form. Featured instruments include guitars, accordion, bouzouki, and bodhran (Irish drum).

The group's unique brand of Scottish music has won it the highest praise for recorded works and their dynamic live performances.

The band was formed in 1972 and the present group has played together since 1976. In that time they have developed into a musical force renowned not only in their native Scotland, but also in the rest of the British Isles, Western Europe, the U.S.A. and Canada.

Their work frequently broadens to projects outside the framework of the band and they have, individually or collectively, written and performed music for television, radio, films and stage.

During 1980-1981 Silly Wizard toured from the Scottish Highlands to the California desert, from the French Alps to the mountains of Alaska.

Tickets are $5 advance and $6 at the door. They are available at Recycled Records, Monterey; Open Book Bookstore, Pacific Grove; and Do Re Mi Music, The Barnyard, Highway 1 and Rio Rd., Carmel.

For more information, phone 375-5454.

Japanese film, also

Keaton, Marx Brothers films to be screened

A Buster Keaton film and a zany Marx Brothers comedy will be featured by the Monterey Peninsula Film Society on Friday and Saturday, April 16 and 17. The Burmese Harp, an award-winning Japanese film, will screen on Wednesday, April 21.

The 1927 Buster Keaton film, Steamboat Bill Jr., will screen to the accompaniment of professional pianist Gary Sage. One of Keaton's greatest comedies, Steamboat Bill Jr. is set in the days of the old side-wheeler steamboats.

The climax of Steamboat Bill Jr. is considered to be one of the wildest ever made. The famous cyclone sequence is one of the most carefully staged and beautifully executed disasters filmed.

Following an intermission with refreshments, Duck Soup, starring the Marx Brothers, will be screened. This film was the Marx Brothers' climatic moment at Paramount Studios. They were given the top director on the lot, Leo McCarey, and the freedom to do what they wanted in the film.

Groucho stars as the prime minister of Freedonia, who soon reduces the kingdom to a hilarious shambles with the help of secret agents Harpo and Chico.

The Burmese Harp, the winner of the 1956 Venice Film Festival, will be shown on Wednesday. Filmed in Japanese and Burmese with subtitles, the theme is the trauma of war.

Set in Burma at the end of World War II, The Burmese Harp is one of the strongest anti-war films ever made. It explores the question of individual and collective responsibility for the horrors of war while finding a melancholy beauty even in the bleakest of circumstances. The film is intense and beautifully photographed.

The New York Times called Burmese Harp a "heart-breaking plea for an end to all wars."

The films will screen at 8:15 p.m. in the Morse Auditorium, 440 Van Buren, Monterey.

Admission is $3 general and $2.50 for students, military, seniors and society members.

For more information, phone 659-4795.

Hidden Valley offers dance classes

The Dance Division at Hidden Valley Music Seminars has planned an intensive two-week series of dance classes and workshops for girls aged 10-15 from July 19 through 31 at Hidden Valley, Carmel Valley and Ford roads, Carmel Valley.

The program is designed to provide young dancers with the opportunity for professionally supervised training in classical ballet, character dance, jazz, folk dancing, pantomime and music awareness. Workshops will be given in nutrition, make-up and dance injuries. Two ballet films will be shown.

In addition to regular classes there will be a daily production class for the purpose of presenting a dance concert on Saturday, July 31 in the Hidden Valley Theatre.

Patsy Wester will head the faculty for the second year. Trained at the Metropolitan Opera Ballet School in New York, she later performed at the Met. Currently she is the dance coach for the United States Olympic Gymnastic Team and principal instructor of the Hidden Valley dance program.

The faculty will also include Susan Cable (jazz), Ed Holmes (mime), Al Daoud (folk dancing), Debby Lenz (ballet assistant), and Steve Tosh (musical awareness).

Auditions will be required for those who wish to enroll. Auditions begin the third week in May.

All classes, meals and lodging will be provided on the Hidden Valley campus. The fee is $350. A limited number of scholarships are available.

For more information and applications, write Meryl Robertson, Dance Coordinator, Hidden Valley, P.O. Box 116, Carmel Valley, CA 93924 or phone, 659-3115.

New dance company will debut at MPC concert

June Watanabe, San Francisco Bay Area dancer, will perform with her newly formed dance company at 8 p.m. Friday, April 16 in the Monterey Peninsula College Theatre, on campus, 980 Fremont, Monterey.

Watanabe's company reflects her unique virtuosic style. It consists of young professionals in the area of modern dance. The program will include works by Watanabe and Broadway music coordinator Betty Walberg. Cellist/improviser Gwendolyn Watson will be a guest artist.

Considered one of the Bay Area's most disciplined and talented artists, Watanabe served as an understudy in the Martha Graham and Donald McKayle dance companies.

Watanabe will give a master dance class from 10-11:30 a.m. on Saturday, April 17 in the MPC dance studio. Cost is $5.

Tickets to the dance program are $4 and are available at MPC Community Services. For further information, phone 646-4063.

Lyceum/Bach music auditions will be presented

Auditions for the prestigious Lyceum/Bach music workshops will be presented at 9 a.m. Saturday, April 17. Choral auditions will be given at the Church of the Wayfarer, Lincoln and Seventh, Carmel.

Auditions for instrumental workshops are scheduled

Saturday, May 1 at 9 a.m. at All Saints' Episcopal Church, Ninth and Dolores, Carmel.

The workshops are planned for Mondays through Fridays, from mid-June through early July. They provide an opportunity for sixth grade students through second year college students to have advanced instruction and performance with principals of the Carmel Bach Festival under the director of Sandor Salgo, Priscilla Salgo (choral director), and Fred Schlichting, instrumental.

For applications and information, phone 372-6098.

Fine Dining In Town... FISH HOUSE On The Park

One of the reasons The Fish House is so highly regarded for its fresh seafood is our award winning chef. Our menu, featuring fresh, locally caught seafood is an award winner, too. Every dish is prepared with such singular quality and attention to detail that our fresh "continental" seafood and imported seafood delicacies are always favorites.

We think you'll also like the gracious hospitality, impeccable service and convenient location... The Fish House on the Park...

the elegant dining alternative.

*A colorful

By RICHARD TYLER

ETHNIC DANCE forms have become especially popular in recent years, probably because they appeal to such a wide range of audience tastes and experience.

Professional ethnic companies are now performing throughout the country representing nearly every region of the world. Among the more familiar are Spanish companies such as Luis Rivera, Maria Benitez Estampa Flamenco, and Jose Greco. East Indian soloists and ensembles such as Indrani and Sukahya, or Bhaskar are also familiar names. Since the late 1970's, other groups have emerged such as the Aman Folk Ensemble performing Eastern European folk dance and Arthur Hall's Afro-American Dance Ensemble whose specialty is African dance forms. Whatever the style, ethnic dance companies are usually crowd pleasers because they are colorful and exciting. Many ethnic companies are traveling constantly throughout the world bringing to audiences the historical folklore of their country.

Such a company is the Ballet Folklorico Mexicano which shall make its first appearance on the Carmel Festival of Dance, Sunday, April 18, when it takes to the stage of the Sunset Theater.

Ballet Folklorico Mexicano was founded eight years ago as a direct reaction to the alarming realization that the traditional dances of Mexico were fast disappearing. A national treasure was in danger of vanishing, a victim of the industrial impact on an agrarian society built around the pueblos, the small villages that are the root sources of a culture going back thousands of years. The results would be a deep loss not only to Mexico but to the world.

With monumental research, choreographic artistry, superbly designed costumes, and a dedicated company of talented dancers, Mexicano was created to preserve and display the rich diversity of the Mexican culture and traditions expressed through the vitality of dance.

John Dougherty, reviewing the company in Dance News said: "sold out, shouting, cheering performance...unusually attractive, brightly costumed dancers...musical group with virile singers, virtuoso trumpet players...the audience roared its approval."

Mexicano in concert is an incredible explosion of color and beauty! Now it is possible for any audience to enjoy the excitement and spectacle of the folklorico experience.

Their performance at Sunset Theater will start at 8 p.m. Ticket information may be obtained by calling the director's office at Sunset Center, 624-3996.

St. Croix Doorway is one of ten paintings by Edward Szmyd to be exhibited at Miner's Gallery Americana, Sixth and Lincoln, Carmel. The collection of Szmyd's works includes landscapes in all seasons, gardens, greenhouses, and architectural motifs, all executed in large scale. The exhibition will open with a reception from 4-7 p.m. on Saturday, April 17.

Szmyd paintings open at Gallery Americana

The works of Edward Szmyd, a major new silhouette on the horizon of great American painters, will be exhibited in a one-man show at Miner's Gallery Americana from Saturday, April 17 through May 1. The exhibition will open with a reception from 4-7 p.m. Saturday, April 17 at the gallery, Sixth and Lincoln, Carmel.

For the past 25 years, paintings have flowed from the easel of Edward Szmyd only to quickly disappear into private collections. As a result, Szmyd has enjoyed somewhat limited exposure to the ever-widening spectrum of American art lovers.

Though Szmyd has exhibited his work with Gallery Americana for some years, it is a rare occasion when the gallery is able to present more than two paintings at any one time. This exhibit features ten large Szmyd canvases.

Born in Pennsylvania during the Depression, Szmyd started painting at the age of nine. By 15 he was selling his paintings. At 20, he moved to Florida, where he has created a life and a studio around the order and exactness of his art.

Largely self-taught, Szmyd manifests a transcendent ability to capture radiant interplay of light and shadow, while infusing nature's vitality with a sense of tranquility. His style is his own, refined, with a high sense of presence, reflecting constant wonder at the beauty of the earth.

The quality and longevity of his work is most important to Szmyd. Each canvas is primed four times, and the construction of his paintings is similar to the techniques of the Renaissance masters. Over a blocking of the basic painting is a series of underpaintings and glazes, blended and cross-blended, until he attains precisely the refraction and interplay of light and shadow demanded by the crystal-clear image in his mind.

Because of the drying process associated with the underpaintings and glaze sequences, he works on three or four meticulously developed paintings at a time. Months may pass before he is satisfied to release a particular painting to the gallery.

Szmyd's works include landscapes in all seasons, gardens, greenhouses and architectural motifs executed in large scale. The scale of his work, combined with a technique that requires painting with small brushes, obviously requires infinite patience and discipline.

His compositions are classic, but his approach to the canvas yields a dynamism which enhances the viewer's ability to feel more deeply the life force implicit in his work.

Miner's Gallery Americana is open from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. seven days a week.

For further information, phone 624-5071.

Watercolor exhibit continues

Watercolors of the Dordogne, a collection of 28 paintings by Maragaret Anderson, will be exhibited through April at the Carmel Foundation Gallery, Lincoln and Eighth, Carmel.

The paintings picture the castles, villages and farmyards of the Dordogne region of France. This is the artist's first show.

Anderson had a local advertising career under the name Meg Smith for many years. She has lived in Carmel since 1946. In 1977 she married James W. Anderson and on their retirement in 1980, they traveled to southwest France. They lived in the village of Beynac.

Anderson majored in art at Smith College. Watercolor painting is her current focus. She is a member of the Monterey Peninsula Watercolor Society.

The gallery is open from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday and from 2-4:30 p.m. on Saturday and Sunday.

'Friends' will exhibit contemporary color photographs

Four Color Photographers, an exhibition of contemporary color photography by William Christenberry, Avery Danziger, Emmet Gowin and Terry Husebye, will open with a preview and reception at the Friends of Photography Gallery on Friday, April 16. The reception, which is open to the public, will be from 8-10 p.m. in the gallery at Sunset Center, Carmel.

William Christenberry received his BFA and MFA degrees from the University of Alabama. He taught at Memphis State University from 1962-68 when he joined the faculty of the Corcoran School of Art in Washington, D.C. Currently, Christenberry is an associate professor of art there. In 1976 he was the recipient of a National Endowment for the Arts Photographer's Fellowship.

Known for his work in sculpture and painting as well as photography, Christenberry has had many one-man and group exhibitions, including three important photography shows in Washington, D.C. at the Corcoran Gallery of Art (1977), the Sander Gallery (1980), and the Middendorf-Lane Gallery (1981).

Christenberry's first photographs were taken with a Brownie camera as studies for his paintings. It was not until 1962 that he was encouraged by Walker Evans to regard his photographs as works of art. He is fascinated by the cultural iconography of the rural countryside, particularly the road signs and buildings of Hale County, Alabama, where he was born in 1936. The current show includes large-format and Brownie camera photographs.

Avery Danziger was born in Chapel Hill, North Carolina in 1953. He now lives in Los Angeles. Danziger studied at the University of North Carolina, at Eisenhower College in Seneca Falls, New York, and at San Miguel de Allende, Mexico. He received a Photographer's Fellowship from the NEA in 1979.

During 1980, exhibitions of his work were presented at FOTO Gallery, New York City; BC Space, Laguna Beach; and San Francisco Cameraclub. His prints were included in New American Photography at the Chicago Center for Contemporary Photography and in California Color at The Photographers Gallery in London and the Il Diaframma/Canon Gallery in Milan in 1981.

Danziger's photographs are sometimes whimsical or bizarre with blurs of color created as he jiggles the camera and flashes a strobe light at the moment of exposure. The Cibachrome prints from the recent series, Man-made Animals, will be exhibited at the gallery. They depict the wildly exuberant animals created for the Rose Bowl Parade. The photographs are marked by a celebration of vibrant color, animated by camera movement and provocative framing.

Emmet Gowin was born in 1941 in Danville, Virginia. He received his BFA degree from the Virginia Professional Institute in 1965 and his MFA from the Rhode Island School of Design in 1967. He now lives in Pennsylvania and commutes to Princeton University where he has taught since 1973. He received a Guggenheim Foundation Fellowship in 1975 and a National Endowment for the Arts Photographer's Fellowship in 1977 and 1980.

In recent years Gowin's work has been exhibited by the Creative Photography Gallery at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology; the Susan Spiritus Gallery, Newport Beach; and at Light Gallery, New York City. A monograph of his photographs, Emmet Gowin Photographs, was published by Alfred A. Knopf in 1976.

Widely known for his work in black and white, Gowin has worked in color for many years. His large-format color landscapes and portraits made in the United States and Europe display a sensitive and subtle palette. The colors, primarily pastels, reinforce the often complex structure of the prints.

Terry Husebye was born in El Paso, Texas in 1945. He earned his BA, MA and MFA degrees from the University of Wisconsin and received an Emerging Photographer's Fellowship from the NEA in 1981. Solo exhibitions of his work have been presented at the University of Wisconsin, San Francisco Cameraclub and the Arco Center for Visual Art, Los Angeles.

Husebye's photographs in this exhibition are from his Ocotillo Flat series. They were taken in the desert of Southern California. Playing the spike-like forms of the ocotillo cactus against the mottled hillsides in the distance, Husebye creates spatial distortions in his prints that are reinforced by the nearly monochrome colors of the desert landscape. His interest lies in the formal rather than topographic description of the land.

The exhibition will be shown throughout May 23. The gallery is open from 1 to 5 p.m. daily. For more information, phone 624-6330.

BERBERINO DI MUGELLO, ITALY, a photograph by Emmet Gowin, is one work from the collection of four photographers' images to be displayed from April 16-May 23 at the Friends of Photography Gallery, Sunset Center, Carmel. The exhibition, Four Color Photographers, also features the work of William Christenberry, Avery Danziger and Terry Husebye.

Zantman Art Galleries will exhibit paintings by classic Italian painter Paintings by internationally known Italian artist, Lucio Sollazzi, will be the subject of a one-man show which opens Saturday, April 17 at Zantman Art Galleries, Sixth and Mission, Carmel. The artist will be present at a reception, to which the public is invited, from 5-8 p.m. Saturday evening.

Sollazzi is well-known for his dramatic handling of sunlight and shadow, particularly in his depictions of the byways of Italy's little towns. His paintings also display a masterly quality of brushwork, vibrant color and solid, convincing formal structure.

Frequently, one will find anecdotal episodes in his work, generally featuring clerics in their vestments. Sollazzi shares his view of the world by means of a realism heightened by the overflow of powerful feelings.

The Italian critic Bruno Tacconi observed,

"What is attractive in Sollazzi is the love of authentic, simple things: the local markets, the charming old streets of his native Pavia...the green river Ticino and the turbid skies which accentuate the explosive lighting of his subject matter."

Born in 1925 in the town of Pavia, Sollazzi still lives and works there. He studied privately with the painter, Borgononi, and attended the Accademia di Brera in Milan.

Sollazzi has developed an international following. He has had numerous one-man shows in Italy, Switzerland, Spain, Belgium, Monte Carlo and the United States. This is his second one-man show at the Zantman Art Galleries.

The gallery is open from 10 a.m.-5 p.m. Monday through Saturday and from 11 a.m.-5 p.m. on Sunday.

For more information, phone 624-8314.

First Masters' Festival of Chamber Music will be presented by Hidden Valley Music Seminars

The First Annual Masters' Festival of Chamber Music will be presented by Hidden Valley Music Seminars Thursday through Sunday, July 1-4. This new innovation in Hidden Valley programming is expected to grow to become one of the most important chamber music festivals in the country.

Programming has been done under the direction of Larry Newland, assistant conductor of the New York Philharmonic. It will include great chamber works from the baroque, classical, romantic and contemporary periods.

Distinguished New York Philharmonic performers who will participate in the festival include Julius Baker, solo flute; Leonard Davis, associate principal viola; Glenn Dictorow, concertmaster; Judith Le Clair, solo bassoon; Lorne Munroe, solo cello; Phillip Myers, solo French horn; Joseph Robinson, solo oboe; and Peter Simenauer, associate principal clarinetist.

Other musicians scheduled to perform in the festival will be Harold Dictorow, principal second violin, Los Angeles Philharmonic; and Janee Munroe, viola, of the Juilliard School.

Pianists for the festival will be Lisa Emenheiser of the Juilliard School and Jonathan Feldman.

Tickets will go on sale in three weeks. For more information, phone 659-3115.

Pacific Grove Art Center exhibits wildflower paintings

Wildflower Paintings, an exhibit of paintings by Mary Foley Benson, is currently featured at the Pacific Grove Museum of Natural History, Forest and Central, Pacific Grove.

Benson is a nationally recognized scientific illustrator and painter. She was formerly chief scientific illustrator in the department of entomology of the U.S. Department of Agriculture, Washington, D.C. She also served as senior scientific illustrator in the department of entomology, University of California at Davis.

Benson's work appears in many publications including the Encyclopedia Britannica, publications of the Smithsonian Institution, the U.S. Patent Office, and the American Academy of Science. She illustrated Introduction of Trees of California by Woodbridge Metcalf and the 1952 Yearbook of Agriculture.

The artist was born in Iowa and spent most of her life on the Eastern seaboard. Currently, she lives in Davis.

Wildflower Paintings will be exhibited at the museum through April from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Tuesday through Sunday.

Wildflower show opens in PG, 500 species will be on display

Monterey County wildflowers representing more than 500 species will be exhibited in the 21st Annual Wildflower Show at the Pacific Grove Museum of Natural History. The show will be presented Friday through Sunday, April 16-18 from 10 a.m.-5 p.m. at the museum, Forest and Central, Pacific Grove.

The flowers exhibited are freshly picked and displayed in that condition along with their common and scientific names. Plants are shown in family groups to enable students to see the similarity and differences between species.

Rare as well as common flowers will be shown. The rare and endangered ones are grown from seed maintained at the museum and privately so that none are removed from the wild.

The public is welcome at no charge. The museum will be closed on Thursday, April 15.

Choral ensembles will present free concert

Three outstanding choral ensembles from Loyola Marymount University, Los Angeles, will present a concert at 7:45 on Friday, April 16 in Carmel Mission, Rio Rd., Carmel.

The 1982 Chorus Tour of the Loyola Marymount University Choruses highlights the 25th anniversary of the tour and the 45th anniversary of the establishment of the LMU Men's Chorus. The choruses are directed by Paul Salamunovic, professor of music at LMC and a nationally recognized conductor and clinician.

Membership of the three ensembles — Men's Chorus, Women's Chorus and Consort Singers — totals 70 voices. The repertoire includes every style of music from the Medieval chant, to Renaissance polyphony, baroque concertato motets, through the classical, romantic and modern. Both serious and popular sacred and secular selections distinguish their spectrum of exciting choral music. Few touring collegiate ensembles offer such a surprising variety to their audiences with such near-professional quality.

In February the director and the choruses were invited to present the closing concert of the Western Regional Convention of the American Choral Directors Association in Pasadena. The extraordinary variety and finesse of their presentation was received with acclaim by the audience.

Admission is free and the public is welcome.

Brown Bag journey to Hong Kong offered

Hong Kong and the performing arts will be the subjects of two films presented by the Brown Bag Cinema series today, Thursday, April 15 at Sunset Center, Carmel.

A 1979 Emmy Award winner, Hong Kong: A Family Portrait, gives a view of Hong Kong through the daily lives of a resident family. Filmed in color, the movie was recognized as an outstanding glimpse into the lives of a typical family living in Hong Kong.

The second film, The Performing Arts, won the Gold Camera Award in the United States Industrial Film Festival. It is a lively overview which illustrates how we express our attitudes toward ourselves and our world through the performing arts. The Performing Arts observes that we are all performers with a strong drive to demonstrate our emotions physically.

Bring a brown bag lunch and meet at noon on the terrace of Sunset Center. Sunset Center will provide coffee. The films are shown at 1 p.m. in Leonard Carpenter Hall.

There is no charge to attend the Brown Bag Cinema; the public is welcome. For more information, phone 624-3996.

WILDFLOWER PAINTINGS by Mary Foley Benson, nationally recognized scientific illustrator and painter, are currently on exhibit at the Pacific Grove Museum of Natural History, Forest and Central, Pacific Grove. This work, Wild Oats and Wild Mustard, is one of the prints on display through April. The museum is open Tuesday through Sunday from 10 a.m.-5 p.m.

c. Use of residential structures in the R-1 district under a use or occupancy agreement which divides the right to use the structure on a time interval basis so that no owner or occupant having a right to use the structure under the use or occupancy agreement is eligible to register to vote in Carmel-by-the-Sea Municipal Elections is illegal except as otherwise provided for in this Code.

Section 10. Division 5 of Part X of the Municipal Code of Carmel-by-the-Sea is amended by adding new Section 1351.12 to read as follows:

1351.12
TIME SHARE DEFINITIONS:

a. A "time-share estate" is a right of occupancy in a time-share project which is coupled with an estate in the real property.

b. A "time-share use" is a license or contractual or membership right of occupancy in a time-share project which is not coupled with an estate in the real property.

c. "Time-share occupancy" is occupancy related to the situation wherein a purchaser receives the right or entitlement in perpetuity, for life, or for a term of years or other extended term to the recurrent, exclusive use or occupancy of a lot, parcel, unit, room(s) hotel or portion thereof, or segment of real property, annually or on some other seasonal or periodic basis, for a period of time that has been or will be allotted from the use or occupancy periods into which the time-share project which is involved has been divided. The said right or entitlement to occupancy may attach in advance to a specific lot, parcel, unit, room(s), or portion of a hotel, or segment of real property, or may involve designation of selection of the same at a future time or times.

d. "Time-share program" is any arrangement for a project whereby the use, occupancy or possession of real property has been made subject to a time-share estate, use or occupancy, whereby such use, occupancy or possession circulates among purchasers of the time-share intervals according to a fixed or floating time schedule on a periodic basis for a specific period of time during any given year, but not necessarily for consecutive years.

e. "Vacation time-sharing project" is any real property that is subject to a time-share program.

f. "A time-share project" is one in which a purchaser receives the right in perpetuity, for life, or for a term of years, to the recurrent, exclusive use of occupancy of a lot, parcel, unit or segment of real property, annually or on some other periodic basis, for a period of time that has been or will be allotted from the use of occupancy periods into which the project has been divided.

Section 11. Constitutionality, Severability. Should any section, paragraph, sentence or word of this Ordinance or of the Code hereby adopted be declared for any reason to be invalid, such invalidity shall not affect the validity of any other section, paragraph, sentence or word of this Ordinance or said Code.

Section 12. Effective Date: This ordinance shall become effective thirty (30) days after its final passage and adoption.

Introduced on the 16th day of March, 1982.

ORDINANCE NO. 2826 (Carmel Valley Area)

AN ORDINANCE AMENDING TITLE 20 (ZONING) OF THE MONTEREY COUNTY CODE, THEREBY AMENDING CHAPTER 20.108 (LAND USE REGULATIONS FOR THE CARMEL VALLEY FLOODPLAIN).

THE BOARD OF SUPERVISORS OF THE COUNTY OF MONTEREY

DO ordain as follows:

Section 1. Title 20 (Zoning) Chapter 20.108 (Land Use Regulations For The Carmel Valley Floodplain), Section 20.108.030 (Scope), is amended to read as follows:

20.108.030 SCOPE.
This chapter shall apply to that area within the riparian corridor, 200 feet of the river bank, and within the floodway and floodway fringe designations illustrated on maps prepared by Nolte Engineers for the Federal Emergency Management Agency and title, "Preliminary Flood Boundary and Floodway Map" beginning at the westerly boundary of Lot 11, and the westerly boundary of that 4.768 acre parcel of lot 12 as shown on Page 200 of Volume X3 of Surveys of the Hatton Partition of Rancho Canada de la Segunda and extending upstream to the "Limit of Detailed Study" easterly of Camp Stephan. (Ord. 2749, '83, 1981)

Section 2. Title 20 (Zoning) Chapter 20.108 (Land Use Regulations For The Carmel Valley Floodplain), Section 20.108.080 (Approved Projects Exclusion is amended to read as follows:

20.108.080 EXEMPTIONS.

A. Any development project for which all required permits have been secured and are in effect at that time of adoption of this ordinance shall be exempt from the provisions of this chapter. Should any such permit(s) lapse or otherwise become ineffective for any reason, all provisions of this chapter shall then apply. (Ord. 2749, '83, 1981)

B. Any channel modification, or alteration of riparian vegetation within the river channel or on the riverbanks which, in the opinion of the District Engineer and the Director of Planning would be of such a very minor nature that such projects could have no impact on the River, its visual appearance, habitat values or stability, are exempt from the provisions of this ordinance. This exemption only applies if the proposed project is approved by the District Engineer and the Director of Planning prior to the commencement of the intended work.

PASSED AND ADOPTED this 6th day of APRIL, 1982, by the following vote:

AYES: Supervisors Del Piero, Shipnuck, Petrovic, Moore, Peters.

NOTICE INVITING SEALED PROPOSALS

NOTICE IS HEREBY given that sealed proposals will be received by the District Board, Carmel Sanitary District, at the District Office, Carmel Rancho Shopping Center, Building No. 26358, San Carlos Agency Building, Carmel Rancho Lane, P.O. Box 221428, Carmel, California 93922, until 2:00 p.m. on May 7, 1982, at which time they will be publicly opened and read for performing work as follows:

Pumping, hauling, and disposal of approximately 220 tons per week of sewage sludge from the Carmel Sanitary District's Water Pollution Control Facility at $— per ton. The District's Water Pollution Control Facility is located on the south side of the Carmel River approximately 1/2 mile west of Highway 1.

This work shall be done in accordance with the Sludge Hauling Proposal and Agreement, to which special reference is hereby made.

Pursuant to the Statutes of the State of California, the District Board has adopted the general prevailing rates of overtime and legal holidays in the locality in which the work is to be performed determined by the State Director of the Department of Industrial Relations:

It shall be incumbent upon the successful bidder to pay not less than the minimum hourly wages required by said Schedule of Wage Determinations to be paid to the various laborers and mechanics directly engaged in the performance of the work. In the event that any change in the above rates is made, said changed rates shall apply to this public project without adjustment in bid price.

The District reserves the right to reject any and all bids or to waive any irregularities or informalities in any bid or in the bidding.

The results of the bidding will be reported to the District Board at their regular meeting on Thursday, May 20, 1982, at which time the District may award the contract to the lowest responsible bidder as so reported; however, said District Board reserves its right to reject any or all bids and to waive irregularities of any bids.

No bidder shall withdraw his bid for a period of thirty (30) calendar days after the date set for the opening thereof.

Proposal and Agreement forms may be secured at no charge from Carmel Sanitary District, Carmel Rancho Shopping Center, San Carlos Agency Building, Carmel, California 93922.

EVER THINK OF MONEY?

In today's real estate market, money is critical. Notice the "$" signs on the listings below. Know what they mean? Money. For sellers, because they sell their homes. For buyers, because they buy homes they want — and generally — the payments are lower because the interest rates are lower. We know the blessings and the problems in owner-financing. Ask us.

A Touch of Spain in Carmel

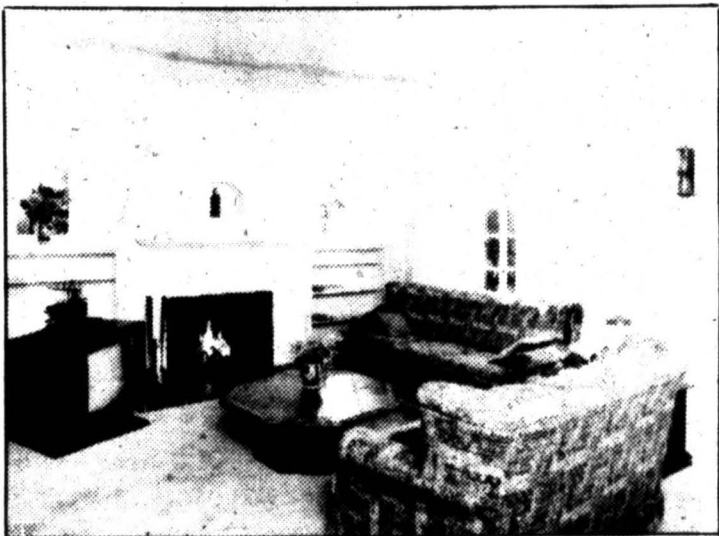

The arch was very popular when this house was built. There are no less than 5 arched doorways beckoning you from place to place: the front door, door to the den, the corridor, the bath and the dining room. In addition, there's an arched recess above the dining room buffet, and still another that spans the window above the kitchen sink.

The exterior is in the Spanish tradition: white old-style stucco (hard as stone), authentic tile roof, ceramic tiled landings at front, side and rear. Arches again are an important part of the exterior decor; and broad shelves for plant pots underline the front windows.

Inside, all is creamy white. The living room ceiling rises in a modified arch, and at the far end a lovely white fireplace rises to the ceiling. There are shelves at either side and bright windows above them.

The dining room opens through a double doorway as you go back. Its ceiling is gently domed; casement windows and a door to the drive line the south wall, and other doorways lead to kitchen and the bedroom corridor.

Every room in the house is carpeted in a soft doeskin deep pile. The kitchen floor is newly laid vinyl tile. Appliances are set apart in comfortable nooks, and a service bar provides an attractive breakfast setting. A back door opens under an overhang to a very private paved patio, set just apart from the detached garage.

There are 2 good-sized bedrooms ranged along a corridor on the north side of the house. Between them is a comfortable, carpeted bath with tub and shower. A real bonus is the small den on the northwest corner, just off the living room. It's a charming spot with casement windows looking toward the street and two lovely pines in the front yard.

They don't make cabinets like they used to. Everywhere there's a chance, there's a cabinet. And there's additional storage in the small basement.

The house has been repainted recently, inside and out, and it's in perfect condition. A very solid home with much natural charm and opportunities to add your own touches. It's on Lincoln, several blocks south of Ocean, in easy distance of town and beach. $275,000.

Carmel With Point Lobos, Hill And Mission View

Holly and ornamental cherry trees, cotoneaster and juniper bushes are included in the low-care landscaping in terraced beds and bordering the driveway of this shake-roofed, stone and wood home on a large lot and with view embracing Point Lobos, the sweep of the Fish Ranch hills and Carmel Mission.

Bookcases flanking the window and a Carmel stone fireplace, coved ceiling, mahogany paneling and a rug covering hardwood flooring are features of the gracious living room enjoying panoramic views both to the south and to the west.

Handsome paneling and carpeting enhance the formal dining room with a bay window capturing view towards Point Lobos.

The breakfast room with hill view is off a compact, custom kitchen and opens to a huge patio with a barbecue and sink in a big, Carmel stone counter facilitating outdoor meals.

This bedroom with a parquet floor also opens to the patio. Similar flooring is in the master suite and a paneled den, or third bedroom, has random plank flooring. Completing the upper level is another bathroom. Downstairs, with separate entrance is an area embracing a bedroom, bathroom, bar and storage space. Additional storage space is off the double garage with electric door control. Price of this pleasing property located within the Carmel city limits is $350,000.
